Well It's $4. But Never Mind.
Alfalfa Bill Speaks Up.
Meeting in Arctic Land.
More for Less Money.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BIG STEEL did not reduce its dividend to $5. It reduced it to $4, from $7. The old dividend could have been paid, since the company has hundreds of millions of resources, but the reduction is wise. Don't spread sail in a gale, don't scatter your money among stockholders, in a depression.

The company earned, during the June three months period, only a few cents, on the preferred stock.

Therefore, $4 on the common is quite generous.

THOSE THAT see only as far as the ends of their noses will probably get rid of their steel stock. Those able to see two or three years ahead will gather it in as others unload. This is not advice to buy steel, or anything else. The only advice given here is "DON'T GAMBLE."

GOV. MURRAY, of Oklahoma, proud to be called "Alfalfa Bill," intends to stop squandering the oil treasures of his state at ridiculous prices.

He tells the big oil companies if they don't increase their prices to $1 a barrel on next Saturday night, he will sign an executive order shutting down all but "stripper wells" in Oklahoma.

FEDERAL COURTS may "drag the constitution" into the question, proving that the Governor can't carry out his plan.

But there is common sense in what the Governor says, and in his statement that oil should sell for MORE THAN $1 A BARREL.

THE DIRIGIBLE Graf Zeppelin, sailing toward the North Pole with scientists and adventurous spirits aboard, told the Zeppelin works yesterday by radio that Dr. Eckener had landed his great ship off Hooker Island, Franz Joseph Land, remaining 13 minutes on the water, and transferring mail to the Russian ice breaker Malygin.

They had arranged to meet in that far away place near the North Pole and did meet there. That is a good enough miracle for anybody.

SOME THINGS are encouraging in our depression. The public buys now, for about $40,000,000, the same quantity and quality of coffee that cost us formerly $200,000,000. That is what makes Brazil sad.

America buys now, for $50,000,000, as much and as good rubber as we used to buy for $300,000,000. That saddens the British, who have a monopoly of rubber. But it is cheerful for you who buy tires.

THE GOODYEAR Company, in a well-written advertisement, reminds you that you can buy a 30-by-3½ balloon tire now for $8.55. An old-fashioned cord tire of that size in 1918 cost $41.65. And the tire of today gives you three times the mileage of a 1918 tire. Thus you get for your money, in real use,

POST, GATTY CHEERED BY CROWDS

World Fliers Honor Guests In Auto Parade; Arrive At Field Before Greeters

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, round-the-world flight heroes, received the acclaim of Pittsburgh today.

The streets were filled with cheering people; the air downtown full of paper and ticker tape to welcome the intrepid airmen as they were whisked to the City-County Building by a special police escort.

The fliers arrived at Bettis airport more than an hour ahead of the official welcoming committee composed of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Public Safety Director James M. Clark, Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, and a host of other city and county officials, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the Aero Club of Pittsburgh. Carl W. Forcier, chairman of the reception committee, greeted the airmen with an apology and a request to go back up and do it all over again.

TAKE AIR AGAIN

Obligingly, the two airmen took off again and flew around over the city for half an hour or more until the arrival of the official greeters.

The crowd at the airport, estimated at several hundred upon the arrival of the fliers, soon swelled to several thousands and the police motorcycle escort had to clear a way through for the official procession.

Led by blaring sirens of the police, the parade sped through

2 Racing Planes Heard in Ireland

Airmen Believe N. Y. Fliers Spanned Sea Safely

By CHARLES A. SMITH,
International News Service.

LONDON, July 29.—Hopes that all four contestants in America's trans-Atlantic air race had successfully spanned the ocean were expressed by aeronautical authorities here this afternoon following reports from Valentia, Ireland, that the engines of two planes had been heard in the vicinity, although neither was sighted.

One plane was heard at 1:15 p. m. (8:15 a. m. Pittsburgh time) and another at 3:15 p. m. (10:15 a. m. Pittsburgh time). Rain and poor visibility, it was said, would account for the fact that neither plane was sighted, but some concern was felt that nothing had been seen of them further inland.

Valentia is on the extreme west coast of Ireland and lies on the route contemplated by Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, occupants of one of the trans-oceanic planes, who were heading for Moscow on the first leg of an attempted round the world flight to break the record of Post and Gatty.

The situation was somewhat northerly, however, for the other two airmen, Russell Boardman and John Polando, who left New York on an attempt to reach Constantinople, Turkey, without a stop.

A thorough check-up by International News Service of all wireless and cable stations, lighthouses and coast guard stations showed that nothing had been heard of either plane with exception of the Valentia report.

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

Lloyd George, 68, Great Britain's great wartime premier, operated upon today for hematuria at his London home by Lord Dawson, of Penn, King George's personal physician. Dame Lloyd George, his wife, is hurrying to his side, all other family members are there.

CAIN NOW OUT FOR TREASURER

Indications of a Coyne-Armstrong alliance were strengthened today with the taking out of petitions to place Sheriff Robert S. Cain's name on the Republican primary ballot for County Treasurer. Attorney Robert B. Averbach made the application to the County Bureau of Elections.

Last Thursday, Attorney Averbach, solicitor for the Sheriff, applied for petitions to place Cain's name on the ballot for County Commissioner. This, according to the political dopesters, was taken to mean a threat that if Joseph G. Armstrong, incumbent, did not team up with State Senator James J. Coyne, a candidate, Cain would run independently.

Averbach's action today, however, is taken to be a sign of peace within the ranks, with Coyne and Armstrong receiving the sanction of the powers that be for Commissioners, and Cain receiving the support for Treasurer.

Aspirants for the three nominations for director of the poor were increased to 21 when petitions were taken out from the county election bureau yesterday by Dr. Jacob Neil, of McKeesport; K. M. Schuckman, of Dormont; Walter J. Zuck, of West View, and H. H. Kunde, of Wilkinsburg.

BREAK IN HEAT WAVE DUE

The mercury, after reaching 89 degrees at 2 o'clock this afternoon, hesitated with gathering clouds heralding the approach of a thunderstorm, but not before it had claimed two victims of heat prostration.

Meteorologist W. S. Brotzman said he expected thundershowers tonight and cooler weather tomorrow.

Stricken at Beechwood boulevard and Wilkins avenue late yesterday, August Millagi, 66, of 19 Carver street, was reported in a serious condition in Homeopathic Hospital.

W. R. McWilliams, of Washington, Pa., collapsed at Market street and Liberty avenue shortly before noon today. He was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. After a brief rest he departed for home.

HOOVER ACTS TO RELIEVE JOBLESS

President Holds Conference With Red Cross Chief to Co-ordinate Aid Program

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP.)—President Hoover today summoned Chairman Payne, of the American Red Cross, for a conference regarding relief for the unemployed.

After a long conference, Payne said that in his opinion it was the beginning of a thorough study of the situation and the start of a co-operative movement among different agencies.

NOT ALARMING

Reports on unemployment, he said, were not alarming, but at the same time could not be described as bright.

Payne declared:

"The burden of unemployment falls on the local community first.

"It is the primary duty of the state, county and municipality to bear the burden of unemployment."

SEEK CO-OPERATION

All the agencies of the federal government, the states, counties and municipalities are now working to the same end, he said, and the movement which the President began today looks to having them co-operate more fully.

Questioned as to the part which he expected the federal government to play, the Red Cross chairman replied that there was no possible reason for the federal government being called upon now. He said:

"The place for unemployment relief is in the local communities where everyone knows everyone else."

Shorts for Tennis? Never, Says Helen

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 29.—(INS.)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is emphatically against shorts for women tennis players. She said:

"Stockings are out of date now for women on the tennis courts, and I thoroughly approve of short skirts — the shorter the better. But I think shorts are hideous and they will never make any headway among the ranking women players."

Queen Helen is still sticking to her famous eyeshade.

Suit Demands Rudy Tell Song Profits

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—An accounting of the profits made by Rudy Vallee and others associated with him in handling the song, "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," is demanded in a suit by Roberta Hudson Mokay, who claims to have written the song, it was revealed today.

POLICE BATTLE MINE STRIKERS

WHEELING, W. Va., July 29.—(AP.)—Striking miners and city, county and state police battled today near the Hitchman Coal Company mine at Benwood. The struggle ended when police charged the strike demonstrators with riot clubs. Three persons were arrested.

The struggle followed the attempt of about 100 striking miners from Warwood and Elm Grove to prevent miners from entering the Hitchman working. Bob Brownie, leader of the pickets; Jack Stiart and Leo Cizeski were arrested and held in the Marshall County Jail awaiting hearing on charges of inciting to riot.

Mussolini, 48, Ears Tweaked by Children

ROME, July 29.—(AP.)—It was the privilege today of Anna Maria Mussolini, 2, and her brother, Romano, going on 4, to tweak the ears of the Premier of Italy 48 times.

For today was the forty-eighth birthday of their father. Birthday plans were simple, in accordance with Mussolini's stern orders.

Big Leader Falls 7 Points on Cut In Dividend

BULLETIN.

United States Steel closed at 84¾, off 7¾ for the day.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Reduction of the United States Steel dividend from $7 to $4 broke the stock market wide open today with Steel common leading the decline. The big leader started the day at 87¼, an overnight loss of 5⅛ points, rallied to 87⅞ and then backed down to 84¾, from which it rallied slightly in the late trading.

All departments of the market suffered as a result of the break in Steel. American Can was under heavy pressure most of the day as were a dozen other leading industrials. The high-grade rails made a poor showing also, several of them getting down to within striking distance of the June lows, the bottom of the two-year depression.

VOLUME MODERATE

Volume of trading increased sharply as compared with the recent market pace, but was hardly up to what was regarded as a normal turnover a few months ago.

Market sentiment was highly confused before the opening. The general expectation was for a sharp drop. This feeling was enhanced by Steel's opening at 89½ in London and trading on the San Francisco Curb yesterday at a decline of about four points from yesterday's close in New York.

Wall street commentators were inclined to view the dividend action as the last major develop-

GUNMAN ROBS GEM STORE

A robber, posing as a customer, who compared diamonds with the air of a connoisseur, held up John F. Doherty, salesman, in Heifer Brothers jewelry store, 617 Penn avenue, this afternoon and fled with three diamond rings worth $1,545.

The man asked to see a three-stone ring displayed in the window and Doherty showed it to him. Then he asked to see a couple of single-stone rings. With three rings on the counter he picked them all up and while apparently comparing them, reached in his hip pocket and drew a revolver. He ordered:

"Don't say a word and don't try to follow me."

To accent his command he pushed the revolver across the counter until the muzzle was pressed against Doherty's body.

FOUR ESCAPE WITH CASH IN AUTO

Intruders Scoop $1,000 From Tills; Frightened by Appearance of Officials

Threatening two girl employes with death, three young bandits, their faces masked with hoods made from the black tops of women's stockings, held up the Smithton National Bank, at Smithton, near West Newton, and escaped with $1,000 in cash.

Each carried a gun, but fled precipitately through a rear window as three officials of the bank arrived at the front door, which had opened for business only half an hour before.

A fourth member of the gang, seated in a car parked behind the bank, sped them away.

GIRLS ALONE

The two girls, Hazel Smith, 35, the assistant cashier, and Grace Elluppold, 23, a clerk, were alone in the bank, arranging money for the day when the robbers entered. About $1,000 in small bills lay on a counter near them.

Miss Smith said she heard a noise behind her and turned to find the three pointing their revolvers.

Miss Elluppold screamed and one of them said:

"Make a noise and we'll kill you."

She answered:

"Take all the money you want, but don't shoot."

The robbers' leader stepped over to the counter and scooped the bills there into his pocket. Then he ordered the girls into the storage room beside the vault.

OFFICIALS APPEAR

As he did so, the bank's cashier, J. K. McDonald, and two of its directors, H. S. Sherbondy and

Benefit Seen for Industry In Steel Dividend Cut

NEW YORK, July 29.—(INS)— While surprise was expressed in some quarters in Wall street on the announcement yesterday of a dividend cut by United States Steel Corporation, financial leaders said today a tension over the entire country had been broken. They pointed out the clearing of the Steel dividend question, despite the reduction, might have a certain beneficial effect on the general industrial situation now the suspense was broken.

Steel common, leader of the industrial shares of the New York Stock Exchange, was placed on a $4 annual dividend basis. A quarterly payment of $1 a share on common was declared against $1.75 quarterly, or an annual rate of $7 a share.

LOWEST RATE IN YEARS

The new rate is the lowest quarterly rate since the second quarter of 1926 and the annual rate is the lowest since 1915, when no dividends were paid. It was the first reduction in regular dividends since 1915.

A statement by the directors said that the board "had also recommended that an adjustment of salaries of all officers and other salaried employes be made in varying percentages, depending on the character of service rendered."

While the directors did not make it clear as to just what employes the salary cut applied, the statement was interpreted as not affecting steel workers and that the 200,000 employes in the plants of the corporation would not have their wages cut.

James A. Farrell, a director, unofficially confirmed the interpretation that wages would not be cut when he said after the directors' meeting:

"Wages were not touched."

'Everything Will Work Out All Right,' He Predicts; Returns to Cap Ferrat

SAINT JEAN, CAP FERRAT, France, July 29.—(AP)— Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, back again for the vacation interrupted by negotiations concerning Germany's economic plight, believes things are looking better. Passing through the town on his way to his villa this morning he said:

"I think everything will work out all right. But, of course, I can't talk about these affairs. I'm going to have a real two weeks' vacation now. I don't expect to go back to Paris and I hope to be home by September 1."

M'DONALD FLIES HOME

HENDON, England, July 29.—(AP)— Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald arrived by airplane from Berlin this evening.

BERLIN, July 29.—(AP)— Prime Minister MacDonald climbed in a British military plane today and departed from Tempelhof Airdrome for home. Two other British aircraft escorted him.

His colleague, Foreign Secretary Henderson, who left by train last night, made use of his opportunity in Berlin to discuss the disarmament problem at length with the German ministers.

DISCUSS ARMS

Mr. Henderson, who will preside at the disarmament conference scheduled for next February, is understood to have been informed by Chancellor Bruening that Germany claims equal treatment so far as armament is concerned.

MacDonald was understood to have made clear in his conversations with the Germans that no new British credits could be extended to the Reich at present.

JUDGE DELAYS AIRPORT RULE

After hearing both sides on the application of 20 property holders seeking an injunction against the Wilkinsburg Airport, Judge James H. Gray said he would render no decision until after he had looked over the flying field. Attorney Walter Dippel, representing the owner of the property, Herbert A. Collins, and John McClintock, tenant and operator of the field, said if he did they would give him an airplane ride.

The property owners alleged the operation of the field disturbed the peace and quiet of the neighborhood and that it was in a high class residence district zone. Specific denials to allegations of the plaintiffs were made during the hearing.

TRIPLE CRASH INJURES TWO

Two persons were injured in a collision of two automobiles and a Mt. Lebanon street car in the 1300 block, West Liberty avenue, at the peak of the city-bound traffic rush this morning.

Police reported that a coupe driven south by John Mirabelli, of 129 Woodstock avenue, was struck by a street car going in the same direction and hurled against a smaller machine in which the injured and two others were riding. The smaller car, driven by H. W. Harbison, of 1403 Belasco avenue, was badly damaged.

Florence McDonald, 17, of 1103 Tropical avenue, and Thomas Duffy, 18, of 1541 Methyl street, were cut and bruised. Harbison and another passenger, Andrew Davidson, of 1403 Belasco avenue, were not injured.

The street car, police said, was operated by John Forbie, of 2512 Eighteenth street extension.

Suspects in Akron Holdup Held Here

Two men said to be wanted in Akron for a holdup were committed to jail today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg pending an investigation. They gave their names as Harvey Murray, 30, of 705 Irwin avenue, and Frank Gaffney, 36, of Steubenville. A man and a woman, Detectives William Bailey and Al Smith testified, escaped from a Colwell street house to which they had been traced.

HOW BANDIT CAR WENT TO BACK OF BANK TODAY TO MAKE ESCAPE THROUGH ALLEYS

PLANS SPEEDED IN REBUILDING RAZED HOME

Death Toll Mounts to 43 With 12 of 60 Still in Hospitals Listed 'Serious'

Engineers and experts, being selected to inspect Catholic institutions throughout the Pittsburgh diocese, will examine the wrecked buildings of the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor in Penn avenue early next week. They are to determine what relief measures can be taken before the advent of cold weather, Bishop Hugh C. Boyle said today.

Forty-three aged men and women have died from fire that swept through the buildings Friday night. About 60 others still were in hospitals suffering from burns and shock. Of these 12 were regarded as being serious.

The body of Michael Corrigan, 64, was identified today at the morgue by a daughter, Mrs. Jennie Tully, of 5012 Baum boulevard. This leaves six bodies unidentified.

CORONER TO ACT

Today as relief plans were being speeded, Coroner W. J. McGregor planned to open his investigation at the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, 5216 Penn avenue.

If the old buildings are to be replaced, it was said, $600,000 will be needed. If the experts agree that the old buildings may be utilized through the installation of fireproofing devices, $250,000 should be ample for the work.

In addition to the committee of experts, Bishop Boyle, aided by clergymen and laymen, is selecting a committee of civic and business leaders to aid in obtaining funds.

ACTION NECESSARY

Discussing the restoration of the Penn avenue home, Bishop Boyle said:

"It is imperative that work be started at once because of the comming cold weather. At present the charges of the Little Sisters are being cared for in the Wall home on the North Side and in the Holy Ghost Sisters' Home in West View.

"Quarters there are overcrowded, and to enable the sisters to carry on their good work, we must give them the necessary buildings."

Funds Received For Home Relief

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has received the following contributions for relief work at the Home of the Little Sisters of the Poor. The money will be turned over to the heads of the institution. The donations:

Mrs. Mary Sethman, 31, whose home adjoins the bank, was attracted by Miss Elluppold's scream and was standing in her back yard as the bandits came out. She called for help. One of the three shouted to her:

"Do that again and you're dead."

She told police that a fourth man, unmasked, sat at the wheel [illegible] mobile sedan.

In the bandits' hurry to get out of the bank, Mrs. Sethman said, the leader, his pockets and hands filled with money, stumbled and fell as he scurried out of the window. He regained his feet and leaped into the waiting car.

The sedan later was sighted going through Scottdale. State police and other officers in adjoining counties were asked to be on the lookout.

TRACES OF BURGLARS

Cashier McDonald

Cashier McDonald said he believed the men broke into the bank during the night, but were unable to force their way into the vault. Marks in the dust of the bank balcony, he said, indicated three men left the bank early this morning and returned when they saw the girls enter to prepare for the opening.

The robbers' car at first was believed headed toward Pittsburgh, and WPDU, the police broadcast station, warned all radio cruiser cars to watch for it.

Smithton is located on the Youghiogheny River, above West Newton.

Two Negroes were arrested by state police near Scottdale while the officers were searching for the bandits. They were riding in a stolen car. The men gave their names as Pagie and Samuel Harris.

CHAPLIN IN LOVE, BUYS OFF RIVAL WITH JOB OFFER

RIDDLE SOUGHT IN RIDDLE OF WIVES

Two Margarets Claim Him As Spouse; No. 1 Has No. 2 Arrested, Charges 'Tip Off'

The domestic difficulties of Charles Riddle, 30, of Wilkinsburg, are too much of a riddle - police say. They're hunting him to straighten ou the problems of two women, both of whom maintain they are his wives.

Mrs. Margaret Riddle, 27, of 7118 Idlewild street, Homewood, mother of two children, today signed information which led to the arrest of Mrs. Margaret Riddle, of 416 Todd avenue, Wilkinsburg, on a morality charge. She was released on $300 bond.

TELLS OF MARRIAGE

Before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, of Wilkinsburg, it was brought out that Margaret Moyer Riddle, the Wilkinsburg Mrs. Riddle, claimed she married Charles in Greensburg, December 6, 1929.

Margaret, the Homewood Mrs. Riddle, told Shields she has two daughters by Charles, Rosemary, 7, and Antoinette, 6; that her husband deserted her May 30, 1930, and that she sued him in desertion and non-support court and he disappeared. With constables from Shields' office, she said, she visited 416 Todd avenue last night, where she learned he resided, and found only a woman there.

WOMEN MEET

The conversation, as the Homewood Mrs. Riddle told it before Squire Shields, was as follows:

In the house the Homewood Margaret asked:

"Where is my husband?"

The Wilkinsburg Margaret answered:

"Your husband? I married him in Greensburg December 6, 1929."

The Homewood Margaret also charged that the Wilkinsburg woman "tipped off" the husband and that, forewarned, he failed to come to the Todd avenue house.

Police in Pittsburgh broadcast a call for Charles Riddle to solve the riddle.

CHEERING WORLD FLIERS

MAYOR CHARLES H. KLINE HAROLD GATTY WILEY POST

"I WELCOME YOU TO PITTSBURGH ON BEHALF OF THE PEOPLE OF THIS GREAT CITY"

POST AND GATTY WELCOMED BY CROWDS HERE

Hays to Carson street and through the mill district where the cheering crowds became almost hysterical at the sight of the air heroes. The parade moved down Carson street to the Smithfield Street Bridge and across into the Golden Triangle, circling from Smithfield street down Second avenue to Ferry street, to Fifth avenue and up Fifth to Ross street to the City-County Building.

KLINE LEADS CHEERS

Mayor Kline officially welcomed Post and Gatty on the steps of the City-County Building and led three cheers for the famous fliers. The Mayor said:

"You two men are heroes in the interests of aviation. Your remarkable feat goes to prove that aviation is no longer in its infancy, but is a full-grown child.

"Pittsburgh today attempts to honor you, but it is you who are honoring Pittsburgh by your presence."

The parade was resumed and the fliers escorted down Grant street amid a shower of ticker tape and bits of paper to the Chamber of Commerce for luncheon.

GREETED AT FIELD

Col. Samuel Harden Church was toastmaster. Col. Church said:

"Post and Gatty have shown the prime ministers of several nations that national boundaries will count for nothing in the future. They also showed that the disturbance of the old fabrics of civilization is possible in the future."

Thomas Dunn, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was the first to greet Post and Gatty as they stepped from their plane. He said:

"I am highly honored to greet the men who made history. As a boy I read the wonderful tales of Jules Verne and his anticipated 80 days around the world, which you have beaten by 72 days. I got a great kick out of your flight and the present generation marvels at it."

VISIT HOSPITALS

Post said that after leaving Toledo, O., this morning they had planned to stop at East Liverpool, O., but the field looked too rough and they continued here.

During the afternoon the pilots were to visit the Crippled Children's Hospital and other institutions in the Pittsburgh district. From 7 to 9 p. m. there will be a reception in Bettis Field, to which the public is invited. While the reception is on, an aerial show will be staged over the field, with skyworks, an aerial circus and fireworks.

TEST OF RADIO DELAYS LINDY

NORTH BEACH AIRPORT, N. Y., July 29.—(AP.)—Possibility that Col. Lindbergh and his wife may not hop off today was expressed by the flying colonel this morning as he prepared to make a final test flight with a radio expert here shortly after his arrival at the airport.

The plane in which the Lindberghs plan to fly to Tokio was poised at the edge of the ramp while delicate adjustments to the elaborate radio apparatus were being completed.

Mrs. Lindbergh, dressed in her riding breeches and ready to hop off at moment's notice, waited in a shack at the airport for the tests to be completed.

At the summer home of Mrs. Lindbergh's parents, Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, at North Haven, the Lindberghs will say goodbye to their son, Charles, before starting for the Orient.

Robbers Bind Man, Beat Wife; Captured

ALTOONA, Pa., July 29.—Two robbers entered the home of Alfred Hunter, Irvona merchant, and escaped with money and jewelry after binding Hunter and beating his wife today, but they were captured three hours later at Flinton. The robbers said they were John Demish and Mike Rogers, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Cooper-Velez Troth Reported Broken

NEW YORK, July 29.—(INS.)—Gary Cooper, the Montana cowboy who made good in the movies, was in New York today after a visit abroad.

Rumors that his engagement to Lupe Velez, also of the screen, had been broken were circulated when the actress failed to meet him at the boat.

Tug Captain Swept Overboard, Drowns

ERIE, Pa., July 29.—(INS.)—Swept into the waters of Lake Erie by a giant breaker which crashed over the deck of the tug Atlas, Capt. A. Dooland, 68, of Detroit, Mich., was drowned today.

Mrs. Edge's Mother Taken Ill in France

PARIS, July 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Harold Sewall, of Bath, Me., mother of Mrs. Walter E. Edge, wife of the American ambassador, is ill at Le Touquet, it was said at the embassy today.

Meadville to Quit Guessing Time; Gets Clock

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 29.—Meadville no longer will have to guess the time of day as citizens look at one of the four divergent faces of the clock in the Court House tower. New mechanism, electrically operated, together with a new bell, is being installed and a master clock in the commissioners' office will control the whole system.

The old clock stopped a year ago after operating 65 years.

POST PRAISES COUNTY PORT

Wiley Post, intrepid pilot of the Winnie Mae on the eight-day flight around the world, today praised the Allegheny County Airport, now nearing completion, as one of the best he ever had seen. He said:

"Allegheny County's new airport, which I understand will cost $2,000,000, is better than 95 per cent of the fields on which we landed or flew over in our trip around the world.

"We were about to stop at the county airport on our arrival this morning, but saw the ships and activity at Bettis Field and landed there.

"I never have seen finer runways or better landing facilities than those of your county field. After the field has been completely equipped you will have one of the finest airports in the world."

Accused of Theft, Slashes Cellmate

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 29.—Accused by his cellmate of attempting to rifle his pockets while he slept, Frank Menandez, 30, of Donora, attacked Anthony Rodriguez, 30, of South Donora, with a pocket knife. Suffering from a dozen stab wounds and a possible fracture of the skull, Rodriguez was in Washington County Jail hospital in a critical condition.

Boy, 4, Lacerated In Fall From Bridge

Richard Barkley, 4, of 520 Grandview avenue, East Pittsburgh, was recovering at his home today from lacerations received, police say, when he fell from the approach to the new Westinghouse Bridge in Bessemer avenue nearly 20 feet to the street below.

He was treated by Dr. H. C. McClellan and taken to his home.

SODA-JERKING HEROINE!

MISS DOROTHY GRIFFIN, 22 … HER SCREAMS CAUGHT BANDITS

Miss Griffin, 641 Ninth avenue, Munhall, calmly back at work at Simon's, 1917 Murray avenue, after two men held up the shop, menaced her with a pistol. She screamed, they got caught.

HEROINE BACK AS SODA CLERK

Dorothy Griffith, 22, of 641 Ninth avenue, Munhall, was back at her job today in Simonsen's Bakery, 1917 Murray avenue, Squirrel Hill, mixing drinks for thirsty Pittsburghers, as her fellow workers tell how her calmness resulted in the capture of two bandits.

Menaced by a revolver in the hands of one of the robbers while the other looted the cash register of $50, Miss Griffith remained calm until they left. Then she fled into the street screaming.

Plainclothesman George Mamula and constables from the office of Alderman Sol S. Goldstein, next door, gave chase and captured the bandit pair as they were about to board an automobile.

The two, Daniel Meik, 18, of Evaline street, and Lee Levingston, 30, of New Lebanon, Pa., were identified as the two bandits who on Monday afternoon held up the Tisherman's bakery at 2201 Murray avenue.

Guard Against War For Capone's Throne

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—A possible outbreak of gang wars in an elimination tournament to provide a successor to Al Capone in the liquor syndicate was guarded against today by police and detectives, since Capone's imprisonment is only a few days away.

Capone, whether he is the real power in the gang or merely the creature of Johnny Torrio, former leader, is going to "take the rap" tomorrow, when he receives sentence on his plea of guilty to charges of income tax evasion and violation of the liquor laws.

RUMANIAN GIRL INFATUATES COMEDIAN

Promises to Make 'Gigolo' Type Second Valentino in Films to Quit as Suitor

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—A romance as hot as the rays of the July sun has just reached me via cable. Our old friend, Charlie Chaplin, kingpin of the comics and a regular Don Juan when it comes to falling in love, has again succumbed. Charlie, according to our cable advices, is infatuated with a beautiful Rumanian girl.

BLOCKS RIVALRY

Unfortunately for Charlie's reputation as the perfect Romeo, our information is that the love is mostly on Charlie's side. The Rumanian beauty being admittedly in love with a slick-haired youth who might be cast in a movie as a gigolo if he were in Hollywood.

Having had many experiences in matters of the heart with such beauties as Lita Gray Chaplin, Mildred Harris, Pola Negri, Peggy Joyce et cetera, et cetera, Charlie has, putting it in simple language, promised the said youth to make another Valentino of him.

The lad with visions of glamor and glory has let Charlie occupy the center of the stage.

BUILDS NEW HOME

Ordinarily as thrifty as a Scotch banker, Charlie forgets money when he is basking in the sunlight of some fair charmer's smiles. So, just to prove to the Rumanian beauty how little money means, he has built a costly home in Juan Les Pins adjoining the lady's humble abode.

McCormick's Bride Plans Reno Divorce

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Janet Gattis McCormick said today she would leave for Reno to seek a divorce from John McCormick, former motion picture producer. The principal reason was, she explained, that McCormick weeps whenever he sees a photograph of his first wife, Colleen Moore, of the films.

McCormick and Mrs. Gattis were married in Honolulu. Shortly after McCormick's return here, following the break with his bride, he declared he still loved Miss Moore.

Over the northern plains temperatures have moderated, but high temperature continues over the central plains. One hundred degrees or higher occurred yesterday afternoon in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa. The highest temperature reported in the plains states was [illegible] degrees at Des Moines. There were light showers in the region of the lakes and over the Rocky Mountain states and the southeastern states.

Texas Girl First to Wed Into Ruling Family

LONDON, July 29.—(INS.)—A Texas girl today became the first American member of a European ruling house, when Miss Aleene McFarland, daughter of Mrs. Charles McFarland, of Weatherford, Tex., became the bride of Prince Johann, heir to the throne of Liechtenstein.

The ceremony took place in the church of Our Lady of Assumption.

The new Princess Liechtenstein, who is 29, wore a dark coat with fox fur trimming and carried a bouquet of carnations.

Prince Johann, 31, is a grand-nephew of Prince Franz I., sovereign of the little principality of Liechtenstein, which occupies an area of about 65 square miles south of Lake Constance, Switzerland.

His country is reputed to be one of the happiest realms in Europe, its public debts having been liquidated years ago.

The prince's family dates back to the year 1249.

'Worst Performance' Due To Illness, Ethel Says

DENVER, Col., July 29.—(AP.)—A murmur of surprise and conjecture which followed the opening performance of Ethel Barrymore in "The School for Scandal" here Monday, had led today to publication of a front-page article signed by the famous actress in which she "explained" what critics called the "worst performance of her career."

Under the headline, "Ethel Barrymore tells own tale of 'Worst Performance,'" the star related that a curtain of darkness seemed to hover over her throughout the play and that her feeble attempt at an old-fashioned curtsy was caused by a strained ligament in her left leg.

Miss Barrymore frequently forgot or mumbled her lines, but admiration for the actress for carrying on under obvious difficulty was expressed by some first-nighters. Others censured her and one suggested that his money be refunded.

SEARS' NATIONAL
FURNITURE AND RUG EVENT

1931

brings the greatest Sears' furniture values in 31 years

YES, it's been a long time since furniture prices were so ridiculously low—and we are of the opinion that it will be a still longer time before they reach such levels again. Realizing all these things and closely watching the market's trend, Sears planned a tremendous, Nation-Wide Event, buying in enormous quantities, right at rock bottom prices, and bringing all these beautiful things for the home to you at typical Sears savings.

BUYING Furniture is not usually a yearly event. When Mr. John R. Public re-decorates and re-furnishes his home it is not just for the time being, but is meant to be a permanent thing. We believe that 1931 is THE furniture year; that prices will decline no more. Never was there a greater time to buy furniture than in 1931. Never was there a greater opportunity than Sears' National Furniture and Rug event, now in progress.

A PURCHASE of 1163 carloads of Furniture and Rugs by Sears, Roebuck and Company brings you many unbelievable prices. For months the entire resources of the World's Largest Store have been directed toward creating values that will long be remembered; values that will make Sears' furniture department the talk of the town. Come to Sears' Pittsburgh Store and enjoy the fruits of our labor. Bring the family, and if you like, shop in the evening when it is cool.

—for your convenience Sears will remain open every Thursday, Friday and Saturday night until 10 o'clock.

For Finding the Best Bargains Offered by Advertisers in the Sun-Telegraph

Here's the Idea . . .

You know that the advertising announcements in the Sun-Telegraph are teeming with bargains.

What are these bargains? What are you finding? Why, in your mind, are they bargains? Within a day or two you have undoubtedly made purchases from the advertisers who are in the columns of the Sun-Telegraph and you had a special reason for buying their particular goods. Something in particular drew your attention to these bargains. What was it—the price, the quality, or both?

You are shopping every day. Let's make it doubly profitable to you. Study the advertising announcements in the Sun-Telegraph, see what you really need, examine the goods offered. If the article or articles are something that you want and the price is satisfactory, make your purchase and then tell the "What and Why?" Editor of the Sun-Telegraph why you made the purchase.

Confine your letter to 100 words or less. Tell in your own way why you think the article you purchased was a bargain at the price you paid for it, but bear in mind that the article you refer to must have appeared in the advertising announcements in the Sun-Telegraph. The purchase ticket must accompany your letter and the date the announcement appeared in this newspaper.

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES:

(1) The "What and Why?" contest is sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, not for urging readers to purchase what they do not need, but with the idea in mind of emphasizing the fact that the counters in the Pittsburgh stores are today filled with real bargains. The Sun-Telegraph knows that many readers of this newspaper will take advantage of these rare offers as they see them announced in this newspaper and is anxious to tell all readers about these bargains and why they are bargains. The purchase price of the article does not enter into the rules of the contest. You may find a bargain for a penny—any price. But if you find a bargain, tell us what it is and why in a letter of less than 100 words.

(2) The bargain must have been announced in the DISPLAY advertising of the daily or Sunday Sun-Telegraph and your letter must mention the day and date the announcement appeared, and be accompanied by the sales slip given to you at the time of purchase. Address your bargain letters to the "What and Why?" Editor, The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. They should be written and mailed not later than 24 hours after the purchase has been made.

$25.00 in Daily Cash Prizes
First Best Letter	$10.00
Second Best Letter	5.00
Third Best Letter	3.00
Fourth Best Letter*	2.00
Five Next Best Letters, each $1.00	5.00
	$25.00

(3) Cash prizes will be awarded for the best "What and Why?" bargain letters.

See List of Prizes Above

(4) The names of winners will be announced in the Sun-Telegraph one week later from the day the bargain announcement was made in this newspaper. This means that there should be no delay in sending in your contest letters and sales slips.

(5) Employes of the Sun-Telegraph or members of their families are not eligible for entry. In cases where the judges decide that letters are of equal merit duplicate awards will be made. All letters submitted automatically become property of the Sun-Telegraph, with the right to use them as this newspaper may so determine. No correspondence pertaining to the contest will be answered. The "What and Why?" bargain letter contest will run for two weeks—or longer, at the option of the Sun-Telegraph.

START TODAY! Read the Advertisements in the Sun-Telegraph, look for what you need, examine the goods offered, and if you think you have found a bargain, tell the Sun-Telegraph about it.

The awards will be made daily by an impartial set of judges.

STORES' PARADE TO BE STAGED TOMORROW

March Through City Streets To Herald Baby Beauty Contest, Picnic Tuesday

The Kroger Stores' parade heralding the annual picnic of the big retail merchandising organization and the annual Sun-Telegraph Kroger Stores baby beauty contest will take place tomorrow. The picnic will be staged at Kennywood Park next Tuesday. The parade will be routed through the Golden Triangle shortly before noon and will be made colorful by a turnout of the company's [illegible] and [illegible] the entire [illegible] Kennywood. A band will head the column.

The baby beauty contest is going to bring together hundreds of the prettiest children of Pittsburgh and vicinity. The winners will be awarded silver cups and baby medals. And by the way, every baby entered will be awarded a certificate which can be exchanged for a quart of milk.

Here are the names and addresses of some of the children already nominated for the baby beauty contest:

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Charles Mock, 4026 Al[illegible] street.

Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McDonough, Fifth street, Verona.

Jacquita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Davis, 1835 Bea[illegible] avenue, Beechview.

Shirley Cleo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCloskey, 330 West Fourteenth avenue, Homestead.

Ella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Neil, 1305 Methyl avenue, Beechview.

If you have not entered your baby in the Sun-Telegraph-Kroger Stores baby beauty contest go to your nearest Kroger store today and get an entry blank. It costs you nothing. Watch the Sun-Telegraph for additional details.

GERARD TO TALK -:- Discussion of Russia Features Radio Bill -:- MELODY PLENTIFUL -:- Shilkret to Present Foster, Herbert Airs

We Now Present

By Howard L. Browning, Jr.

James W. Gerard

Headlining today's program and interesting above entertainment periods is a quarter-hour discussion of Russia as a World Power by former Ambassador to Germany James W. Gerard. Gerard is remembered for his able direction of the American embassy at Berlin during the trying days before our entry into the World War. His opinions on Russia in these days when Communism looms so big on the world horizon and world peace seems so precarious are bound to be of value. He's on WCAE at 8 p. m.

But if you insist on music, have patience and at 8:30 p. m. tune in the same station for Nat Shilkret with airs from Stephen Foster and Victor Herbert. He's on with a new announcer, John W. Holbrook, former actor and aviator.

"Mike" Musmanno, shock-haired state representative running for County Court judgeship, is on WCAE at 7:30 Friday. He's the first political candidate to go on the air in this campaign. "Justice Through the Ages" is his theme and he's authority. An attorney, Musmanno was a member of the Judiciary Special Committee and the Judiciary General Committee from whose desks came all legislation pertaining to courts in the last session. You know what he's done about coal and iron police.

From a children's hour singer to the leading role in a Rudolph Friml musical play is the jump Edna Roebling, of NBC, is making at 17. The show is "Luana." she carries the title role.

The "Buddy Boys" from WLW Cincinnati come to KQV at 9 p. m. tonight. It's the Irrational Broadcasting Company with its Lavender network with Don Becker, creator, and Henry Theis and his orchestra with any one of a number of things.

WJAS will present Capt. Walter Whiteley Hubbard, formerly of Reading and Philadelphia, in a talk on "Historic and Scenic Pennsylvania" at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Here's what one mother writes to Darrell V. Martin about Cousin Lora of the Uncle Gimbee hour:

"I think she is really a wonderful girl to have all that patience with other people's children. My three would not miss Cousin Lora's period for anything. When the whistle blew at 5 p. m. they would be in on time to hear the children and, incidentally, on time for dinner. Now since she has been off the air, the 5 p. m. whistle doesn't mean a darn thing to them."

She's particularly a wonderful girl to have patience with radio editors.

Wednesday, July 29.

The Loud Speaker By Louis Reid

NEW YORK, July 29.—Not so long ago this department, gazing, as is his custom, into his crystal ball, said that the recent ascent of Prof. Piccard into the stratasphere has opened a new field for spectacular broadcast, predicted that the radio men, always on the lookout for novelty, would hardly pass up such an opportunity.

It didn't take the radio men much more than a month to seize the opportunity. Front page news was made the other day when radio was heard for the first time from the stratosphere. The human element may not have entered as yet, the scientists depending upon automatic instruments, vest pocket radio-sending apparatus. But it will, my comrades, and sooner than you think.

It would not surprise us any day to hear that the emeers of the ether are actually carrying out a plan for balloonists to tell the world of their sensations 10 miles above the earth. Heaven knows they've tried everything else spectacular from the mock warfare of airplanes to a parachute jumper describing his feelings while dropping to earth. Of all the broadcasts specially planned to be sensational that of the parachute-jumped was the only flop.

Most active of all the concert stars now in the broadcasters' corral is Toscha Seidel, violinist. A year ago he was one of those artists that the press agents call "guest." Today he draws a big check from various commercial sponsors in addition to being close at hand when the broadcasters decide without any commercial urge to be musically highbrow for a half hour.

Seidel makes no gesture to Broadway in his air recitals, drawing his bow for the most part through the more familiar strains of the masters.

Not much is said about Seidel. Either the press agents pass him by for the crooners and their palpitations or he lacks the ability to dramatize himself. Of the bigger wigs of music in the radio army only Damrosch seems to have access to the publicity mimeograph. There's Nathaniel Shilkret, too. You hear little of Shilkret, though his knowledge of music is broad, his programs noble," as the Great White Father would say, in motive," far-reaching in purpose."

Yet the Shilkrets, the Seidels, the Soderos, the Bourdons, the Marianis are the standbys of the broadcasting barons, lending their sure art, their certain prestige to radio, giving the barons the opportunity to point with pride whenever assailed by those who see Jazz extending his sway too rapidly over the microphones.

AUGUST SALE OF FURS

If ever there was a time to buy a fur coat—that time is now.

Prices are low—no one knows for how long—certainly substantially lower than last year, when furs reached a new 16-year low level.

Styles are full of welcome news—newly feminine, softer, straightline, more flattering than ever.

When you can find here, among other opportunities, a fine trimmed Hudson Seal (dyed Muskrat) coat at $185—a Krimmer coat at $235—a first quality Jap Mink or Persian Lamb coat at $285—then a fur coat becomes a wise investment.

Just one day, tomorrow, to choose in advance of the August Sale. It gives a complete picture of the August Sale in a day—and tells a story worth every woman's interest and investigation.

PITTSBURGHERS WIN PRIZES

Several citizen-soldiers from the Pittsburgh district took prizes in the Parents Day festivities at Fort Myer (Va.) Citizens Military Training Camp Monday. Parents Day is set aside in honor of the parents and friends of the students in the camp to mark the close of the training period.

Among the local men taking prizes were Jerome F. Ennis, McKeesport, third prize, baseball throw and second prize running broad jump; Lincoln H. Loose, McKeesport, third prize running broad jump, and James DeCarlucci, Uniontown, second, obstacle race. He was also on the half-mile relay team, coming in third. The others on this team were William F. Lee, Pittsburgh, and Dalton F. Rush, Uniontown, who also came in third in the rescue race. William Lee and Paul Knorr, Youngwood, were members of the troop winning the mounted wrestling.

Snake Bite Victims On Way to Recovery

CARLISLE, Pa., July 29.—(AP)—Two snake-bite victims are recovering in the Carlisle Hospital. Mrs. Effie Baitwell, 45, of near here, picked up a flat stone to place against a chicken pen door. A copperhead was under the rock and bit her.

Lee Eiler, of Bendersville, Adams County, was struck on a finger by a rattler while picking huckleberries in the South Mountains.

Manager of Phila. Public Hall Chosen

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—(AP)—Permanent appointment of Maylin J. Pickering, formerly of St. Louis, as manager of Philadelphia's $5,000,000 convention hall was announced by the Department of Public Works. Pickering was selected for the place some time ago, but the Civil Service Commission objected to his being permanently appointed without an examination.

Building and Loan Official Gives Bond

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—(AP)—Paul A. Feldman, 33, former secretary of several building and loan associations, was held in $10,000 bail for a further hearing on charges of embezzlement, false entry and forgery.

Feldman is accused of being responsible for a shortage of $30,000 in the accounts of two of the associations.

Bellefonte Airport To Be Enlarged

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 29.—Notwithstanding the fact that the Bellefonte Airport is located between the Allegheny Mountains in the section dubiously dubbed by some writers as "Hell's Acre" and "the Aviator's Graveyard," it has been definitely decided by government officials that it will be permanently maintained. Contracts have been let to enlarge and regrade the field.

Union Spurns Plan For Six-Hour Day

LANSFORD, Pa., July 29.—(AP)—An offer of the Lehigh Coal Navigation Company to provide work for an additional 60 men by introducing the six-hour day was unanimously rejected by the local union. Wages would have been reduced proportionately.

Objection was made because only common labor was affected. Skilled mechanics would have continued on the eight-hour basis.

By SALLY MARTIN

Don't Blame Your Present Actions on the Past

Two men own her!

Dennis, she loves.

Jack, she loathes.

Dennis all that is fine and true, and she has promised to marry him next month.

Jack is all that is coarse and false, yet when he calls she goes to him, though she hates herself as she goes!

Ever hear of a story like that? Suzanne thinks you haven't. She believes she is the only person in the world who was ever tempted to live a story like that. How we kid ourselves!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I want you to help me and tell me what to do. I wish you would tell me your opinion of me, too, when I have finished my story.

DIFFERENT TYPES

"I am to be married next month to just the most wonderful man in the world. His name is Dennis, and honestly, Sally, in spite of what I am going to tell you, I do love him with all my heart.

"But my problem is that there is another fellow, Jack, and he calls me every once in a while on the phone, and when he does, I fall for his line every time. I can't understand myself or why I do this.

"Dennis is everything that a man should be—fine, respectable, loving, considerate, while Jack is coarse and inconsiderate, and I know he doesn't care anything for me beyond the necking he gets from me. He has never even taken me out for a soda. We always just sit on a bench in the park when he comes over. The last time I was out with him I had to ride to meet him. And then I had to go home alone, too, for when the time came for him to take me home he declined, saying he was too tired.

HAD BAD REPUTATION

"Why am I like that? Dennis is really wonderful. He is always telling me that he loves me and wants to make me happy . . . Even after I told him of my past he was just as dear to me as ever. I am just 19 now, and, when I was 14 I went around with a wild crowd and got a very bad reputation in the neighborhood. But Dennis says all that is past now, and we should look ahead. Please tell me what to do. I can't bear the thought of losing Dennis . . . But what can I do when I hear Jack's voice?

"SUZANNE."

What can you do?

Well, in the first place, you can stop telling yourself that you're different from other women . . . branded by that early misfortune, that you feel temptations that other women don't feel and you're unable to help yourself. Of course, it is very thrilling to think these dramatic things about yourself—to picture yourself as a reckless wounded wild flower. And it provides a wonderful alibi for any amount of weakness and wallowing. But, actually, it's the bunk.

There's nothing unusual about your temptations. Millions of healthy young women feel just such urges, face just such temptations. "Telephone Jacks" are the commonest thing there is in any girl's life. But millions of girls refuse to fall for that temptation. And if they can, so can you. Furthermore, you're a nasty, cheap, vulgar little piker if you don't.

So that's the first thing you can do. Face yourself as you are. Then do some plain thinking.

MUST SHOW SPUNK

Why are you "like that?" Because of your past? Because Jack has some mysterious power over you? No! You're like that because of the coarseness in you and you're letting that coarseness run wild. You haven't the sand to put up a fight for the fineness and honest-to-goodness love that the Real You is reaching out for. You're lying down on the job, sister. You're expecting goodness to be handed to you on a silver platter, with no effort on your part—and trying to alibi yourself by blaming your past."

Wake up! Snap out of it! Put a little backbone into living. Goodness is never handed to anyone. All of us have an Ugly Side. All of us have temptations to meet, battles to fight, if we want to live bravely and finely, and it's up to us to meet those temptations and to win those battles.

So get busy, kid! Crash into it! Put that big bum out of your life—now and forever—and every other person like him. Because if you don't, you're going to be a mighty sorry little girl!

It won't be easy. But you're a grown woman now. Show your spunk and act like one! And here's wishing you luck!

The Beauty Box

There are various means of developing the bust, though some cases are hopeless. Massage at night with lanoline. Every morning bathe with cold water. Once or twice a week friction with alcohol. All exercises that pull hard on the fibers of upper arms and chest will prove helpful. Swimming, rowing, golf, tennis are good. When applying cold water use a bath spray so that the hands will not be chilled.

Sunlight is rejuvenating. Not sunlight that streaks through window panes; you have to be out in the open to get pep and ginger from the kisses of Mister Sol. Some of the wan-faced darlings in big cities are air-starved and sun-starved. Longer hours out in the open will give the complexion a rich ivory cast, put life and vitality in the hair, rose coloring in the cheeks. Health is fashionable. And it is only the girl blessed with evidences of health who wins the beauty cake.

Be Calm, Work Quietly, Don't Neglect Pets in Heat Waves, Advices Fay King

CHANGE THE CANARY'S DRINKING WATER OFTEN
KEEP QUIET AND DON'T ARGUE!
BE CALM
PUT A PAN OF FRESH WATER FOR THIRSTY CREATURES, ON YOUR ROOF, OR IN YOUR GARDEN
FAY KING

By FAY KING

In summer we must expect heat waves, and make the best of them.

Be calm. Work quietly. Talk little and above all avoid arguments. It is no time for unreasonable demands. Arrange matters so there will be no need for rush.

Don't be cross to little children. Don't let them play too hard.

Give plenty of fresh water to your pets. In this day of automobiles there are very few drinking fountains. A pan of water, kept very clean and changed often, put in your garden or on your roof, is a human kindness to birds.

Be considerate and kind to your faithful horse.

In the tropics no liquor is drunk until after sundown.

Quiet is 50 per cent of keeping cool.

BE CALM.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

What Secrets Can the "Fortune Box" Hold?

I was so surprised at Lillian's quiet statement that she could answer, in part, Dicky's question as to the connection between Marion's lock-box and a Chinese plot, that I stared at her with unforgivable gauche rudeness. But I was not alone in my stare. Her husband's eyes, Dicky's and my father's were all fixed upon her, and for a long second or two no one spoke. Then her husband said tersely:

"How come?"

"Mind you, I don't know that there is any connection between them," she said, and I noticed that she was hesitant of speech while her face held a curious embarrassed flush. "I only know this. Years ago, during a rebellion in China, Sam Brixton and—Tom Morton—" she uttered the name of Marion's dead father as if she found difficulty in getting it out, and I saw Harry Underwood's big hand clench upon the chair arm so fiercely that I feared for the wood—"were in partnership, in several enterprises, none of which, I think, would have borne close scrutiny. They never confided in me—they dared not—" she amended proudly, "but I gleaned enough to guess that some of the treasures looted at that time passed through their hands—Brixton, indeed, was in China during the worst of it. What bearing those facts may have on the present mystery I do not know, but I thought I ought to tell you all I knew concerning the matter."

"It at least brings Chinese treasures into close connection with Marion's father, who, apparently, confided the things now in the box to his old mother for the child. I wish it were not so. Dynamite would be almost as safe a possession."

My father's voice was authoritative, and my heart traveled toward my shoes.

"Then," Dicky said slowly, "why not open the box, find out what is really in it, and if there is anything our Chinese friends want, hand it over to 'em."

"No, no," Lillian and I protested with one voice, and our husbands turned to us in amazement. But my father looked at us with a smile that told us he understood our viewpoint, whether or not he sympathized with it.

"There are dead hands clutching that box," Lillian said in low tones, her face white. "Marion's father left that box in trust for her, his mother kept the trust and passed it on to the child. The fact that I loathed the one—I cannot gloss over that fact, and had no reason to love the other, does not give me any excuse for allowing that compact to be violated—rather compels me to keep it inviolate. I—I should feel as if they would reach out from their graves in protest—and punishment, if I failed them."

This from Lillian, whose sanity and clearness of vision always have seemed impregnable to me. I had thought that her objections to Dicky's plan were the same as my own, springing from the feeling that the box was Marion's property, and no one else, from whatever motives, had the right to open it. But this rodomontade of nonsense! I stared at her, wide-eyed, until I saw her husband shake his head ever so slightly at me, and I turned my eyes toward my father, who was answering Dicky quietly, and tactfully ignoring Lillian's outburst.

"One objection to that course is that we have no assurance the Chinese have any more right to the contents of the box than have the mysterious bandits headed by the man, Hallam—"

"Whom, if you scratch them, I'll bet you'll find to be blood brothers of one Samuel Brixton, Esquire," Dicky said, and Lillian shuddered.

"I agree with you," my father said, "and it is deplorable that Marion is in such close intimacy with Samuel Brixton's daughter. If our surmises are correct as to his connection with this thing, I fear that the child inadvertently has furnished him with valuable information concerning the box and its whereabouts."

"What do you mean?" Lillian demanded hoarsely, and I put my hand tightly over hers.

"I did not tell you before, dearest," I said softly, "but Marion told Carolyn of the existence of the box and its secret compartment, and wanted to show it to her. Don't look like that. It was the most natural of things. I know girls, remember, have had much experience with them and 'roomies' have no secrets from each other."

"That's no excuse," Harry Underwood said harshly. "They'll share no more secrets. Marion will never see Carolyn again with my consent."

I knew that the only reason for his angry dictum was his concern for Lillian, and his wrath that her daughter had kept a secret from her which she had revealed to a school chum. But Lillian heard only the harshness of tone directed toward the child she idolized, and she flared into quick resentment.

"Harry! You can't mean that! You shan't say it! You have no right!"

Household Hints

When frying bacon place in a cold pan and it will not curl.

Have you a sink or bathtub with ugly brown spots? An excellent way to remove them is to dampen a clean cloth and shake some cleanser on it and then put baking soda on top of the cleanser. Rub it hard and presto, the brown spots disappear.

Always be sure that in your pocketbook there is a card bearing your name, telephone number and address. Then should you be unfortunate enough to lose your pocketbook you stand a chance of its being returned. Many honest people will keep something found when they have no way to return it, but would return it immediately if there were some means of identification.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

When Walking

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. If two women and a man walk down the street, where does the man walk?

2. If it is correct for him to walk on the outside, to whom does he give preference if walking with his wife and mother?

1. The man walking with two women walks on the side of the pavement nearest the curb. He should not walk between them.

2. It would be gracious for the man and his wife to have the mother walk between them.

Flower Girls, Hand in Hand

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be correct for the two little flower girls to walk hand in hand, at a church wedding, as they are very small and I'm afraid that they would be timid about going down the aisle alone?

Yes, this is proper, and very often done. Walking hand in hand seems to be a fortification, as you say, to the little folks who are wedding attendants.

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Focal Infections Are a Handicap to Health

Dr. Copeland

Within the past decade the term "focal infection" has come into common use. It is a condition of great importance. The acceptance of the idea has altered many of our other theories concerning disease.

These germs, or bacteria, or a collection of them, multiply and produce poisons at some definite location in the body. The poisons and, in many cases, the germs themselves, enter the blood stream. They are carried to distant parts of the body, where they produce their harmful effects.

Former methods of treatment failed to relieve, because the real seat of the trouble was not known. By means of modern methods, particularly the X-ray and laboratory tests, the difficulty can be located.

A patient may complain of pain in the leg, knee or back. Though the painful part may be treated, the actual cause is not removed. The focus of infection, the real foundation of disturbance may be in the teeth, nose, tonsils, appendix, gall bladder, or somewhere else in the body.

When the source of the poison is known, and that point is cleared up, prompt relief usually follows. The teeth are the most common seat of focal infection. This is discovered only by an X-ray examination.

The tonsils are frequently the site of focal infection. In cases where the tonsils are actually diseased, their removal must be considered.

The sinuses of the nose are frequently involved in chronic infections. Here, too, the X-ray plays an important role. In addition, the condition of the sinuses can be determined by transillumination, the light shining through the thin tissues.

When the sinuses are diseased and harbor bacteria and pus, a slight operation may give speedy relief and cause the disappearance of the infection. The neuralgia or the pains will be heard of no more after this is done.

It should be remembered that the gall bladder, the appendix or even the intestinal tract may be the seat of focal infection. As a rule the victims show definite digestive disorders. To one skilled in this art the X-ray examination gives definite information.

Any focus of infection in the body is a serious handicap to health. It should be removed. Its removal is important not only for the cure of the existing disease, but for the prevention of future and perhaps more serious ailments.

PIN-TUCKS TO DECORATE CHARMING AUTUMN FROCKS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 29.—There's a raft of smartness and chic tucked within the limited confines of a pin-tuck. More than ever, this season, designers are relying solely on pin-tucking to carry the whole burden of trimming the best and most expensive models. It seems amazing that so simple an ornamentation as pin-tucked motifs can lend such charm, elaboration and richness to a frock. Thus we find this handwork on both day and evening frocks wherever smart women congregate. And it looks as though our autumn clothes are going to be more pin-tucked than ever. No more do we allow the change of the season to be responsible for snatching from us some sartorial device that has won our fancy and approval. What was worn during one season used to be considered demode, the next. But no more, if we like pin-tucks on our summer frocks, why then, we are going to have them on our autumn frocks, that's all there is to that.

TO SHOW JUST how effective a pin-tucked frock can be, we are showing you a sketch of one of Jenny's newest models. It is of pastel blue crepe marocain and radiating pin-tucks from motifs at both front and back of the bodice and at the front and sides of the skirt. The motifs on the skirt head pleated panels which extend slightly below the skirt edge and touch the floor. The shoulder straps are of narrow bands of strass.

MADAME METINEZ DE HOZ, who had several horses in the French Derby in Chantilly recently, wore a chartreuse-colored frock and hat at that event. Her extremely wide-brimmed hat is sketched. It is of fine milanese straw in the same tone as the dress, while two deeper shades of chartreuse velvet ribbon make the trimming. The brim is high off one side of the head at the left, while the right side dips sharply down and is folded in a deep pleat.

DR. AND MRS. RICHARD CLINTON RITTER ... HONEYMOONERS

The newlywed Ritters, pictured at Cavalier Beach, Virginia Beach, Va., on their wedding trip. Mrs. Ritter was Miss Virginia Seaver, daughter of the Kenneth Seavers, "Woodland Lodge," Oakmont, and Dr. Ritter, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Ritter, Ebensburg.

GARBAGE PLAN BEFORE COUNCIL

Council today was to hear Samuel A. Greeley, Chicago expert on garbage disposal, at a public hearing, during which he is expected to recommend changes in the method of disposal in Pittsburgh.

The Chicago engineer is being brought here by Francis Guthrie and Attorney Earl Reed, who asked Council for permission to let him outline a plan that "would work for the benefit of the city."

Greeley, according to city officials, has already studied methods used by the American Reduction Company in handling the local rubbish and garbage removal situation.

He will also report today on the plan of the Modern Service Company, a new organization which proposes to erect incinerator plants throughout the city to dispose of the refuse.

The Modern Service Company underbid the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company by nearly $1,000,000 for a three-year contract starting with 1932.

Crashes Into Porch As He Flees Police

An unidentified Negro, frightened away from the tailor shop of I. Morgan, 2177 Webster avenue, which police say he was attempting to enter, drove his automobile into a porch at the home of Violet Bell, 2174 Webster avenue, causing $25 damage.

TWO GIRLS HIT BY AUTOS DIE

Injuries suffered when struck by automobiles proved fatal to two girls, one 10 and the other 19, yesterday.

Doris Plummer, 10, of 257 Braddock street, Turtle Creek, suffered a fractured skull when struck by an automobile in front of her home last night and died en route to a physician's office. Sam K. Kailey, of Delmont, the driver, was ordered to post bond at the coroner's office.

Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, editor of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate and member of the executive committee, Pittsburgh Chapter, American Civil Liberties Union, was to appear before the coroner today in connection with the death of Kate Kuick, 19, of 918 Columbus avenue.

The girl died in St. John's Hospital late yesterday from injuries suffered Sunday when she was struck by an automobile reported to have been driven by Dr. Urmy at California and Superior avenues. Dr. Urmy lives at 433 Walnut road, Ben Avon.

Suspect Taken In Store Robbery

Captured in the Red Robin Hosiery Company store, 316 Fifth avenue, early today, John Frazier, 24, of Mulberry way, was in Central Station awaiting a hearing in Central Police Court. Police say loot totaling approximately $250 was recovered. An alleged companion of Frazier, said to be a former employe, was being sought.

Anderson, Lang Near Blows In Verbal Battle

Councilman Charles W. Anderson and Public Works Director Edward G. Lang staged a verbal battle in the Council Chamber yesterday that almost ended in blows.

Anderson chided Lang for ignoring requests for reports asked by Council in connection with wharf and other legislation.

He said:

"What's the big idea? Is every director in this building ignoring Council? It appears that way. Council is just a joke!"

President John S. Herron then said:

"Oh I wouldn't say that! Is it as bad as all that?"

Lang, his face red, got up from the table and walked menacingly towards Anderson, shouting:

"I answer every report Council asks for. If you would come around here more often than once every six months, you might know what's going on. I don't shirk any duty and don't have to take such abuse from you."

The sergeant-at-arms, standing ready for a possible emergency, breathed more easily as President Herron rapped for order.

50 ROBBERIES BLAMED ON THREE BOYS

Beebe Assails Release of Suspect, Necessity for Order to Detain Youths

Three boys accused of numerous robberies were held for further investigation in Morals Court today after Police Inspector Albert Beebe had scored the methods of Juvenile Court officers. While the boys are being held a search is to be made for $4,200 in bonds stolen from the office of J. Halpern-Shrager Company, 124 Third avenue, on July 4 when $600 in cash also was taken.

Beebe said one of the boys had been arrested two weeks ago and released by Juvenile Court officers the next day and it would be necessary to get an order from the court to detain the boys pending an investigation of the robberies which, police say, the boys confessed.

The boys were docketed as Michael Flaherty, 16, of 1337 Gibbon street; Theodore Lonosky, 15, of 1000 Vickroy street, and Albin Kuba, 15, of 1205 Gibbon street. Lonosky and Kuba are said to have robbed the Halpern-Shrager Company and the trio is said to have stolen merchandise from three uptown stores.

Although Kuba and Lonosky denied stealing the bonds, police say they have reports that the bonds were buried along the Sawmill Run boulevard.

Inspector Beebe said that 50 store robberies in the uptown district can be traced to the boys who have been committed to the Juvenile Detention Home.

PAIR ON BOND IN BRIBE CASE

C. W. Linepensel, justice of the peace of Bethel Township, and his constable, Ben W. Smith, were at liberty under bond today pending a hearing before Alderman George A. Young on charges of extortion, conspiracy to extort and bribery. The charges are the outgrowth of a raid alleged to have been made by Constable Smith upon the home of John DeMastrio in Sharpsburg October 15. Paraphernalia for the manufacture of illicit liquor was reported seized.

According to Roy Barclay, private detective whose investigations brought about the arrest of the two, the apparatus was returned to DeMastrio three days later when DeMastrio is alleged to have given Smith $200.

It is alleged DeMastrio was told the case could be "fixed" for $500, but when DeMastrio is said to have balked the price was lowered to $200. The transaction took place, it was said, before Justice Linepensel.

Grasshoppers Invade West; No Ice on Wings

—By Arthur (Bugs) Baer—

Grasshoppers are invading Middle West and there's no chance of ice forming on their wings.

Farmers are fighting them with molasses and bran. The hoppers sample the molasses, nibble at the bran and then roll over. That kind of a breakfast would kill anybody.

One farmer paid his way into a ball game with a bushel of wheat. The man at the gate took the wheat and gave him a quart of oats in change.

The next day the same farmer started for town with a load of hay and his wife got a divorce.

Things are pretty tough for the clover kickers with wheat selling at two-bits a bushel. By the time the farmer has signed his seventeenth mortgage he doesn't know whether he is running a farm or a paper mill.

All the boys are praying for rain. Not that it will do their crops any good. But it will keep the frogs quiet.

Seems strange that poison will not kill the Iowa grasshopper. Farmers who have experimented with carbolic acid say it only makes them jump further and bite harder.

In the meantime the hoppers will be fed molasses and bran. It's the home cooking that gets 'em.

Fletcher Prolongs Tariff Board Term

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP)—President Hoover was said at the White House today to believe the Tariff Commission under Chairman Fletcher has proved it can and will make all proper and necessary adjustments in tariff rates.

This statement was made in announcing the chairman had acceded to the request of the President that he remain until November 15 instead of retiring September 16, as was his plan.

Council Grants Zoo More Water; Fund Plea Cut

Little relief appeared in sight today for the animals at Highland Park Zoo as a result of Council's slash of Councilman Clifford B. Connelley's request for a $100,000 appropriation for repairs to $6,200 for new water lines.

Councilman John M. Phillips, who supported Connelley, said:

"It's a wonder the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society doesn't condemn that zoo and close it up."

Connelley and Phillips had urged erection of bear pits, construction of a concrete pool for the elephants and a new aviary for the birds.

As a result of Council's action Managing Engineer James Kennon of the city Bureau of Water, was instructed to install an eight-inch main from the Highland Park reservoir to the zoo. The additional water supply will protect the animals against fire hazards.

Phillips estimated that an outside aviary would cost $20,000 and a bear cage $40,000. Council President John S. Herron commented:

"We are building a garage for $19,500. This garage will hold at least 95 cars when completed. How could anyone spend $40,000 for cages for three or four bears?"

SOLICITOR SAYS SERVICE NOW ADEQUATE

P. S. C. Hearing on Hiland Application Held Over for Protest by Parmelee Co.

The City of Pittsburgh filed a protest against the granting of a certificate of public convenience to the Hiland Taxicab Company when a hearing on the application opened today before the Public Service Commission, as the taxi drivers' strike continued.

The protest, presented by Assistant City Solicitor Charles P. Lang, held that the service supplied by the Parmelee Transportation Company was adequate, that the new company was unnecessary and that additional cabs on congested thoroughfares would be a menace to lives of citizens.

Previously the city had opposed a permit for the Peoples Royal Blue Taxicab Company.

The hearings were continued until next Wednesday that the opposition of the Parmelee Transportation Company might be heard. U. J. L. Peoples and George Wertman, officers of the Peoples company, testified today.

Forced from his taxicab by a group of alleged strike sympathizers, Albert Hoffman of Gillmore street, Green Cab driver, watched his assailants drive the machine away. It was recovered a short time later at the foot of an embankment in Cypress street and Winebiddle avenue.

Police were called to Taxicab Drivers' Union headquarters, 525 Fifth avenue, early today to disperse a group of men who collected in front of the building. They had fled before the police arrived.

New York-Berlin Television Fails

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 29.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

I was pretty worried last week. I am a colonel on Alfalfa Bill Murray's Oklahoma "fighting staff." I thought he overmatched himself. He should take on Kansas till we get in practice, then Texas in the finals. When I heard old Bill himself had hid a long squirrel rifle under his mustache and gone to the wars "in person," I said to myself, "Col. Rogers, you better go into rehearsal," so I got myself a chemist and we started to work. The only way to lick a Texan is with bad liquor. Any state that can make worse liquor than Texas can lick 'em, but it's hard to make worse. That's why Texas licked Mexico. Texas had the worst. They fattened on Mexico's "tequila."

Yours, WILL.

A Columnist's Pal Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear Mark [illegible] I have been reading your column for several weeks [illegible] as though I almost know you [illegible] So when [illegible] the papers about that awful explosion aboard Harry [illegible] yacht, and how all of you got burned, I thought [illegible] you wouldn't mind if I did a column for you, as [illegible] always wanted to be a columnist . . . You certainly [illegible] in the mood to want to do a column after that [illegible] experience, so please accept this . . . Oh, I know there [illegible] people who will say you are a fool to let me bat for [illegible] feel [illegible] let's [illegible] I [illegible] I know [illegible] [illegible] didn't [illegible] year [illegible] string of pearls in a cheap shop . . . Phoney pearls, of course [illegible] worth more than $5 . . . He [illegible] gadget [illegible] however, that [illegible] $5 [illegible] necklace [illegible] a high [illegible] man [illegible]

She [illegible] ence . . . And she was so proud of those pearls . . . When the breaks got tougher she insisted upon pawning them, but he urged her never to part with the pearls . . . He didn't want her to discover that he had a phoney streak in him . . . "Honey," he said to her, "promise me you never will pawn or sell them. I'll sweep floors or do anything rather than have you part with my gift, dear" . . . She vowed that she never would part with them . . . Then later, when he got back on his paws and they could afford better times, she called in an intimate pal, an insurance man, and had the "pearls" insured . . . The insurance man friend put them through swiftly without checking up on their value, for he didn't think it was necessary, knowing them both so long and so well . . . Then he instructed her to place them in his vault.

But she [illegible] the husband that she [illegible] . . . That was [illegible] The other week-end the husband suddenly passed on . . . She needed extra funds for this and that, so she went to the vault to claim her jewels so she could peddle them . . . Only to be informed by her insurance man friend that they weren't worth more than $5 . . . She suspected trickery, charged the man with exchanging her valuable pearls for spurious ones, and had him arrested . . . Only one or two persons in New York knew the inside of the story, how the husband bought cheap pearls just to be able to remember her on her birthday . . . The insurance man pal is as innocent as you and I . . . I mean you . . . But the judge may not believe his side of it, and the poor fellow may get a stretch . . . They don't want to shatter her illusions and tell her that her husband bought phonies for her, but if you don't use this, I'll have to . . . to keep an innocent guy from getting the worst of it.

I guess I've bungled it up all around . . . But that's the story and I'm stuck on it . . . Wherever I go people keep asking me about you and why you are keeping such good hours, etc. . . . I tell them that since you and Gladys middle-aisled it you got some sense . . . and that you go home early or out on boats that explode . . . Yes indeed! . . . Just a big outdoor man! . . . The captain of your alleged soul, that's what you are! . . . Out on the blue . . . With the fishes.

[illegible] Boris [illegible] Park [illegible] White [illegible] And [illegible] And I [illegible] romantic [illegible] husband of [illegible] remember [illegible]

You [illegible] be able to get something [illegible] the fact that Lyda Roberti, the talented comedienne with Mr. Holtz, was trained at the Russian Ballet School in the Old Country and she is a grand dancer, but she got by on Broadway and how without tapping a toe . . . In fact Lyda hasn't danced on Broadway yet . . . I see where several of the boys who are [illegible] are groaning in their departments about needing a vacation . . . Listen, monkeys, there never lived a columnist who needed a vacation . . . so much as his readers need one from him . . .

Miss Guinan is back in town . . . Up at Woodmansten and she opened to a capacity house . . . But what an exhibitionist she is!

She's afraid they won't know she's back in the city, so now she has an amplifier on her armored car . . . She keeps the car going up and down the streets all day so that a specially-made record in the machine keeps yelling "Hello, suckers . . . Come and see me up at Woodmansten Inn!" . . . You can't get away from Guinan, kid . . . She now gets in your hair via the air!

See if you can guess what producer this is . . . He has a special office in his building which may be reached through a tiny door leading from backstage . . . When one of his girls in the show gets a summons to come up to that office she obeys or else . . . Well, the other day at rehearsal one of the beautiful but not so dumb ones got the summons . . . And ignored it . . . Which cost her the job, of course . . . She explains it this way: "You either go through that little door to his office or you take the back door and stay out!" . . . I'd pray for a flop on his next show, Mark, but I usually get my prayers answered and then all those other gals would be out of jobs . . . I'm going to ask Floyd Gibbons to exclude him out of Floyd's nightly closing line to wit: "May a gooseberry cover all your troubles."

Well, sir, here it is 4:25 in the morning and I started doing this at 3:05 . . . All the lights in the editorial rooms are doused except the mazda over my head . . . The phone operator next door is probably being disturbed by my typewriter keys and everything is as quiet as an opening night at Wallack's . . . The porter has cleaned the floors—the presses quit groaning over an hour and half ago and the only other buzz around here is the electric fan in my office . . . But it is nicer being here alone, Mark . . . No phones ringing, no pass-seekers, no aggravations or irritations—and I just ran out of cigarets . . . There is nothing else to do—except start worrying about 12 or 14 paragraphs for my own corner. Faithfully Yours,

WALTER WINCHELL.

COUNTY TO GIVE $15,000 TO AID CANAL

Gathering of Data For Pinchot Commission is Facilitated by Action

County commissioners have pledged $15,000 to assist the commission recently appointed by Gov. Pinchot to bring to reality the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal. City Council has also promised $15,000.

James Rae, appearing as a business man accompanied by Alex W. Dann, representing river interests, told the commissioners that Gov. Pinchot's group was appointed too late to get a state appropriation for the collection of necessary data to satisfy federal agencies of necessities of the Pittsburgh district.

Rae said the canal has been under consideration for years and never was as near to being consummated as it appears to be under the newly appointed state commission.

Judging from recent surveys, the Mahoning and Beaver rivers are to be canalized by the United States government, which would be half the entire route, Rae declared.

DELAY AIRPORT OPENING DATE

County commissioners have held in abeyance a request by C. W. Forcier, airport manager, for an appropriation of $3,500 and authority to hold the official opening of the landing field September 12, Commissioner C. C. McGovern declared.

"Not on September 12. If the opening is held before September 15 (primary election day) it will be nothing but a political proposition."

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong moved that the request be held over. Commissioner Edward V. Babcock was absent.

Tea Leaves Cause Fight in Home

A dispute over tea leaves in the kitchen sink caused the arrest last night of James Noel, 54, of 1509 Arch street, on complaint of his crippled son, Roy, 29, according to testimony in North Side Police Court today. Patrolman Steve Fencak testified he was slightly cut by the elder Noel with a bread knife when he arrested him. Noel was fined $5 by Magistrate Ray Schneider.

A DECEPTION

That The Public Is Openly Warned Against

When You Go to Buy GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN for Pain ... Watch Out That This Deception is Not Attempted Against You

THIS warning is printed to put the public on guard against a deception which may be practised against those who seek genuine Bayer Aspirin for pain, headaches or colds.

We take this means of warning you, so you may be able to protect yourself and your family against the results of such deception.

BEWARE!

Other preparations, we are informed, have been offered at times to those who ask for Bayer Aspirin; and even represented in some cases as being "the same as Bayer Aspirin."

Watch Out! Remember that years ago doctors warned the public against "headache remedies," some of which are heart depressants and unsafe for many people to take.

Then remember how Genuine Bayer Aspirin came. And was acclaimed the world over by leading men of science as SAFE relief for pain, and was prescribed without hesitation by eminent physicians. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

What folly, then, in the light of these things, to dose yourself with drugs of which you know nothing. Don't gamble—KNOW.

The genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets are made by a special process, under careful supervision of scientists, in the Bayer Laboratories, with over 25 years of highly specialized experience.

So when you want SAFE relief for pain, cold or headache, ask for BAYER ASPIRIN. You have a perfect right to ask for what you want. And an equal right to get what you ask for.

Look for the name BAYER on the package. And the word Genuine in red. Insist on Genuine Bayer Aspirin and refuse substitutes.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

There is one strenuous thing that the smart set indulges in no matter how piercing Old Sol's rays become, and that is, of course, golf. And on Friday one of the biggest golfing events of the season will take place at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

The event is an invitation 18-hole two-ball mixed foursome, and the guests will be from members of all of the other country clubs around: Fox Chapel, Longue Vue, Pittsburgh Golf Club, Stanton Heights and I don't know how many others. And an interesting note is that the players will start out at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and the last players will leave the course at 7 o'clock in the evening. Over 300 people will play.

At the finish of the match there will be a dinner and dance in the attractive clubhouse. Several people have reserved tables for guests, and among them are the Frank Warn[illegible], who will entertain 12 guests at the dinner. The officers will sit at a large horseshoe table. Mrs. J. B. Kelly of Parkman boulevard, chairman of the women's golf committee, you know.

And now a definite date has been taken for the annual Rolling Rock Hunter Trials, one of the most beautiful of horsey affairs of the fall. The trials will be held on Saturday, September 26, at the Rolling Rock Farms, near Ligonier, Pa., a week from the closing day of the Westmoreland Hunt horse show.

Every day the heat of more folks who are leaving town. Many who have braved torrid July are planning to abandon the city during August.

Travel Increases

Mrs. William F. McK[illegible] and her daughters Christine and Martha are at [illegible] Poland Spring, Me. And in August they plan to go abroad.

The Frederick Ickes Merricks have been at the Ambassador, New York, for a few days on their way to [illegible], where they'll spend the remainder of the summer.

Also stopping in New York are the [illegible] McClellands, who've been at the Vanderbilt.

The Virginia State open tennis tournament opening Monday attracted many visitors, among them the William J. Crittendens. They entertained at tea Monday on the Casino lawn.

At Tennis Tourney

The Samuel Alfred McClungs and their family are spending the entire summer at their Cherry Valley, N. Y., place, in Lime Kiln Farm.

Mrs. [illegible] Perry Shriver of Brooklyn has been at the St. Regis, New York, and Mrs. Morgan B. [illegible] has been at the Weylin.

Vacationing at the Claridge, Atlantic City, are William C. McCandless and Nicholas Hayes.

3 Flee as Oil Lamp Blast Fires Home

Three persons were routed from their home when fire caused by an exploding oil lamp destroyed the four-story frame dwelling of Frank Vidrich, Creighton-Hollow road, East Deer Township, early today. Volunteer firemen from Creighton and East Deer Township fought the blaze.

Bellevue Drug Store Looted by Thieves

Thieves obtained $200 from an open safe and cash drawers in Craig's pharmacy, 178 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, police reported. Entrance was gained through an open front transom.

Margaret Heller Announces Her Bridal Party

A bride of Friday evening who has named her bridal party is Miss Margaret Ruth Heller, daughter of Mrs. Louise Heller, of Evergreen road, North Side. She will marry Gerald J. Coakley, son of Mrs. Marie Coakley, of Can[illegible] street, Crafton Heights, in the North Side Methodist Episcopal Church.

Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Heller, will be the maid of honor and Walter Brooks will serve as best man.

After a wedding dinner Mr. Coakley and his bride will leave for a honeymoon in Morgantown, W. Va., and when they return will reside in Crafton.

Miss Heller was guest of honor at a picnic-bridge party recently.

Deaths in Indiana Laid to Tall Corn

MARION, Ind., July 29.—(AP)—Iowa may be the state where the tall corn grows, but it also gets pretty high down in Indiana. So high, in fact, that it has obstructed the view of the roads at corners of corn fields. The deaths of two persons and injuries to eight others in automobile accidents within the past three days were attributed to the tall corn.

Influenza Ravages 5 Alaskan Villages

JUNEAU, Alaska, July 29.—(AP)—Roy Smith, white trapper, reported yesterday influenza, ravaging five native villages in the Tikchik River district in the Bristol Bay area, has taken 16 lives.

The disease has joined with famine conditions to make the villages virtually helpless, he said.

CLUB WOMEN PLAN CARD PARTY

Summer Event Will Be Given August 7

Varying the monotony of long summer days at home are occasional card parties for clubwomen. A new one just added to the calendar of the coming days is one to be given next month by the Woman's Club of the City of Pittsburgh.

The event, the first summer card party of the organization, will be held on Friday, August 7, at the Food Craft Shop, preceded by a luncheon. Mrs. S. J. Corbett is receiving reservations for the day, sponsored by the officers and board of directors.

Mrs. J. C. Schreiner of Orchlee street, North Side, the president, entertained officers, directors and committee chairmen in her home recently.

Miss Bachmann to Play On Club Radio Period

The State Federation of Pennsylvania Women will present Miss Clara A. Bachmann, young pianist, in its program over Station KDKA tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock.

Miss Bachmann is the organist at the Epiphany Church, is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, national honorary musical fraternity and received her bachelor's degree in music in June from Carnegie Institute of Technology.

State Capitol Open Saturdays, Holidays

HARRISBURG, July 29.—(AP)—To accommodate the increasing number of summer visitors the State Capitol will be kept open until 9 p. m. on Saturday and holidays, as well as on other week days.

In the past, the building has been closed at noon on Saturdays and all day on holidays. Guides will remain on duty to conduct visitors through the Senate and House chambers, the Governor's reception room and other points of interest.

Pittsburghers Registered At Atlantic City Hotels

Pittsburghers in Atlantic City are Mrs. Hazel H. Berger and S. A. Walker, who are registered at the Dennis Hotel; Mrs. B. J. Averbach, Mrs. Louise Eister, Miss Rae Eister, Mrs. B. N. Neaman, Edward Baker, Benjamin Jaffee, Mrs. George Jaffee and W. R. Perlon at the Ritz-Carlton. At the Jefferson Hotel are J. C. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Marion, William J. Lavery, William Siebert, A. J. Siebert, C. M. Berlin, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Hood, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. McNealy and Barney Lennon.

PITT STUDENTS RIDE ON RIVERS

The annual boat ride of the University of Pittsburgh summer school attracted more than 400 students and faculty members yesterday afternoon.

On a ride featured by dancing, deck stunts, refreshments and impromptu entertainment, the steamer Washington took the school group to Sewickley and return.

Dr. H. C. McKown was general chairman of the committee in charge, assisted by Miss Isabelle Anderson, director of the University summer social program.

AVOID "ASH-TRAY" BREATH

SMOKE PURE-TOBACCO

OLD GOLDS

Laboratory tests show why OLD GOLDS do not taint the breath and clothing with a clinging and unpleasant odor.

The cool, blue-white smoke of an OLD GOLD contains no greasy, artificial flavors that scent up the room and person.

For OLD GOLD is a Nature-flavored cigarette. Made of pure, clean, sun-ripened tobacco . . . so mellow and fragrant it needs no flavor "disguises."

"Keep Kissable with OLD GOLDS" is not a mere claim. It is a real and pleasant fact, as millions of OLD GOLD smokers know. If you'll truly try them, you'll know so, too.

Ultima Thule

So here we find the wondrous trail's far end
 Where ecstasy and rapture bid farewell.
This pool of tears in sorrow's lonely dell
 Should not surprise my heart, of grief a friend.
Was this, then, not enough for you, my dear,
 That I should give my body, soul and mind,
While not in your possessions to be signed,
 But gladly in your service, year on year?

Ah, dear, mistake not carelessness in small
 Details of life as evidence that I
Have failed. The sweetest joys of heaven flee
 Before the kindest critic's heavy pall.
My love and all I am rebel and die
 At being bound by triviality.

Oop!

The San Francisco Call-Bulletin, in which this drivel also appears, had this to say, editorially, on July 17: "The Supreme Court of New York has solemnly decided that the word 'lousy' isn't libelous . . . The learned justice who made the decision would have done a favor to the American language, however, if he had added that though lousy isn't libelous it is certainly a much overworked word. Young things use it on the slightest provocation. For them a party is lousy, a dance is lousy, an enemy is lousy, a hot day is lousy, a meal is lousy, liquor is lousy, anything they don't like is lousy.

"Walter Winchell is almost the only smart columnist who doesn't use the word. He always says 'pediculus' instead."

Hmmm, what a lousy way of spelling pediculous!

Overhead

Mr. Mefoofsky: "Is business dull?"

Mr. Elinson: "Is it dull? Say, I know a cloak and suitor who hasn't made out a check for so long—he's forgotten how to sign an X."

Nifty

The towns here and there strive hard to entice new residents by confronting motorists with contagiously worded slogans on billboards.

Perhaps the niftiest of them all is the one at Lynbrook, L. I., where the congestion of traffic is most annoying.

The sign tauntingly states: "If you lived here you'd be home now."

Add Mouthfuls

Our collection of crisp cracks from caustic critics is embellished by the sign in the wings of an up-state vaudeville theater which greets entertainers in this manner: "The only way some actors can panic an audience is to yell 'Fire!'"

Another on Hollywood

Not long ago Alfred Savoir, the playwright, was prevailed upon by Gilbert Miller to come to America for Paramount Pictures. After he arrived here Savoir was counseled: "By all means learn a little English. Not much, but enough to make them think you understand them, see? It is most important that you know some English."

Mons. Savoir, however, was lazy that way. He couldn't be bothered. He managed to pick up one expression: "What you are saying is nonsense." And that was all.

At the first conference Savoir listened attentively for hours—making no interruptions. Finally he was asked for an opinion. "What you are saying," he indifferently replied, "is nonsense." But he didn't know what he was talking about, nor what they were.

He was Hollywood's first No-Man! They took him seriously and respected him for his candor and gladly paid his wage of $50,000.

And they hang pictures!

It Must Be Awful There!

Another item dealing with the Hollywood system concerns Harry Rosenthal, who is a pianist of distinction.

The directors out there, unaware of the capabilities of their expensive players, summoned Rosenthal and explained his part in a film.

"You will play the part of a piano player," he was told, "we'll get someone to double for you at the piano, however."

"But," said Harry, "I play exceptionally well."

"Well," replied the director, "we'll have someone double for you, anyway."

Add Similes

Dana L. Cotie: Stubborn as a bureau drawer on a muggy day . . . M. B. J.'s: Busy as a xylophone player two bars behind . . . Peter Dixon's: Fleeting as the beauty of cream in iced coffee.

On the Other Hand

F. P. A. taints Harry Hansen's line: "Bad as imitations always are—is there no longer such a thing as a good imitation?"

Mr. Hansen's assistant explained that wasn't what Mr. Hansen wrote. Well, no matter, Ruth Etting and myself thank him for the compliment!

As If You Didn't Know

Whitney Bolton, New York editor, sums the depression such-ee-ay-shun up with this merciless, but oh, so truthful crack:

"There is one good thing about the wages of sin—they are steady!"

Night Club

Marian Nixon, as heroine in "Sweepstakes," film coming Saturday to the Harris, is seen as a night club entertainer.

Hearst News Has Lindy In Air

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News departing on the first leg of their tour to the Orient which may include a trip around the world and prove as epochal as Lindbergh's famous hop across the Atlantic. The fliers are shown leaving College Point, Long Island, for Washington, the official starting point for their 7,000-mile journey to Japan, their present objective. The Globe Trotter vividly describes their trip.

The King and Queen of Siam are shown also in the air when, for the first time in history, the government permitted women aboard the giant dirigible Los Angeles. The Queen of Siam with her ladies in waiting accompanied the King and the Hearst Metrotone News cameraman on a thrilling ride over the skyscrapers of Manhattan.

A gigantic oil well at Thief Tex., which recently went on a rampage, is seen and heard as it defies all efforts to subdue it. Several days ago the well took fire, snuffing out the lives of three workmen. Hundreds are working day and night to stop the fiery menace.

An exciting track meet for girls at Jersey City results in some new national championship records in running, relay and hurdle races, and high and broad jumps.

Al Smith, former governor of New York, is seen and heard at Hampton Bays, L. I., as he gives a party for his tiny granddaughter and her little friends.

One of the most sensational rodeos ever staged is shown in full swing at Cheyenne, Wyo. There's many a hard fall, and in the last scene a big long-horn, after throwing its rider, tries to gore him. The picture is one of the most thrilling ever made.

Metrotone takes you for a ride up the Eiffel Tower in Paris, which is shown being painted.

Helen Hayes In Film

Helen Hayes will appear opposite Ronald Colman in "Arrowsmith," under a loaning arrangement completed yesterday by Samuel Goldwyn with M-G-M. The famous novel, for which Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel and the Pulitzer prize, is being adapted for the screen by Sidney Howard.

Eleanor Boardman Regaining Old Popularity On Talk Screen

By HARRISON CARROLL,

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.

A. A. Milne's "The Dover Road" winds on forever.

Paramount is producing it as a talkie with Eleanor Boardman playing opposite Clive Brook.

Eleanor Boardman

This will be Eleanor's second role at her new studio home. Recently she appeared with Paul Lukas in "Women Love Once." The mediocre quality of the story did not overcast her clever performance, so there is every reason to believe she will regain her former popularity. People who have seen Cecil B. De Mille's "The Squaw Man" say it will help her along.

Oddly enough, the star will be directed by William De Mille in "The Dover Road." This will be his first picture at Paramount since "The Doctor's Secret," in which Ruth Chatterton made her talkie bow.

LATEST GOSSIP

Edwina ("Trader Horn") Booth is one star who can't get a tan. Though she has been back from Africa two years, she still has to be careful about exposing herself to the sun . . . Dick Barthelmess is chartering a yacht to meet the returning honeymooners, William Powell and Carole Lombard, 200 miles at sea. They will be transferred from the liner and will finish the trip among a gay party of their friends, whom Dick is inviting on the expedition, so Honolulu papers please don't copy . . . Pathe is selling Marian Shilling to the public by having other players call her by her right name in a comedy series . . . Hope Williams has been notified by Radio to report here August 15 instead of September 25. The shooting date of "Penthouse" is being pushed forward . . . Clark and McCullough are Broadway bound. They'll appear in a show . . . My story about the four Scotchmen who sat down to a 25-cent-a-point bridge game and passed 492 hands turned out to be bread on the waters. Charley Grapewin sends me his amusing book "Squawk Bridge," and points out a similar joke on its cover. Only Charley's version had it 200 hands. In defense Charley, may I point out that screen stories with less changes are getting by every day as originals.

Richard Barthelmess

THE CANDLE IN THE WINDOW

Some pilots are leery of flying the coast route to San Diego in foggy weather, because there aren't any beacons. This doesn't stop Clarence Brown.

"After the first few minutes," he explains, "I lean out the side. If I hear Arthur Caesar's voice, I know I am over Laguna Beach and headed right."

NEWS

News to me at least is the fact that Sessue Hayakawa played quarterback on Alonzo Stagg's University of Chicago varsity in 1911 and 1912.

The Oriental star, now making a screen comeback with Paramount, entered the university in 1910 from a military school in Japan. During his sophomore year he made one of the quarterback positions.

"In those days," he says, "there was no intercollegiate association and games were scheduled two weeks in advance.

"My football might have been all right had I not been trained in Japan in the art of jujutsu. Sometimes I forgot myself in games and used trick holds in tackling. It always brought a storm of protests from the opponents, and several times I was sent off the field by the referee."

In 1927 Hayakawa appeared on the stage in Chicago in "The Love City." At this time the University Athletic Association gave a dinner in his honor. Afterwards he gave an exhibition in jujutsu and Japanese fencing.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Pittsburgh politicians were given an insight into politics that have a feminine angle in the Penn last night, when there was a special showing of "Politics," co-starring Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, which opens as the screen feature in that theater Friday. They were invited to a screening at 11:30 o'clock.

Small Timer says the time for worry about women invading the realm of the male will be when they give up the tucks for the tux.

Polly Moran is expected to arrive in New York next week to begin a tour of personal appearances. The engagement will open in New York August 14 and will be followed by visits to other cities.

Small Timer says he leads a merry life because he is the first to laugh at his own silly acts.

Constance Bennett, who is abroad, is expected to arrive back in Hollywood in time to begin her next picture on September 1. The title just now is "Dangerous to Love."

Small Timer says he prides himself for choosing the wife he did, but wishes she had chosen different relations.

BUCS WIN 19 OUT OF 29 WITH ROOKIE

Howdy Groskloss

THE FACT THAT the Pirates' longest winning streak of the year was stopped just as soon as Howdy Groskloss left the lineup [illegible] throwing arm is additional evidence of the Sheraden lad's value to the [illegible]. Just how much a single player can mean to a ball team has never been demonstrated here more clearly than in the case of Groskloss and the 1931 Buccaneers. By plugging the second base hole and straightening out the infield, adding a thump to the attack besides, Howdy converted the Rovers from steady losers into a club that has made a better record than any other in the National League during the last two weeks.

Before Groskloss became a part of the daily picture the Ensmen won only 23 games while losing 38, a percentage of .377. But from the time the young medical student was made a regular on June 27 until yesterday there was such a complete transformation in the club that it ran up 19 victories against only 10 defeats, a percentage of .655 as compared with .377 previously, or practically two wins in every three games played.

SEEMINGLY ALL THAT the Bucs needed was more smoothness around [illegible], particularly in the all-important matter of double plays. When he filled that requirement Groskloss made the club [illegible] a winner, and there is no good reason to count [illegible] swinging right back into their upward drive [illegible] to the post.

In this connection President Barney Dreyfuss denies a report that Groskloss will have to quit the Piratoons on September 1 in order to return to Yale medical school to resume his studies. According to the Pirate owner the player is not required to be in school before September 26, so that he need miss only the Pirates' final two-game series in Chicago.

BETTER THAN THAT there is now a chance that Groskloss will [illegible] stay right through to the finish and [illegible] be on deck for the training trip next spring instead of [illegible] until May or June.

Howdy [illegible] for the statement that he is considering [illegible] a year and not resuming his studies until the fall of 1932. He says that he would like to get the benefit of a full major league training trip and thinks he could afford to interrupt his medical course for a year in order to take advantage of the opportunity to go to camp with the Pirates.

FREQUENT COMPLAINTS ABOUT the work of some of the National League umpires here and elsewhere apparently have had some effect, for yesterday Bob Emslie, veteran supervisor of the staff, made his first appearance in Pittsburgh in many moons to observe the handling of the Forbes Field game by the officiating arbiters. He is on a swing around the West, and said he had visited Chicago and Cincinnati before coming to Pittsburgh, with St. Louis next on the list. So League President Heydler ought to receive an official report of the weird decision given by Umpire Ted McGrew on Bill Hunnefield at first base in the eighth inning, when McGrew failed to keep on the alert and then called the runner safe on a play in which Traynor's throw appeared clearly to have caught Hunnefield off the bag, a ruling that gave the visitors two runs and knocked the Pirates out of the one chance that appeared to remain for them to win.

Gabby Street

GABBY STREET is handling his Cardinal staff with fine judgment and getting good results. He is working Burleigh Grimes less frequently now that the Cards have a big lead and is saving him as much as possible, and Jess Haines' 1-to-0 victory over Tom Zachary yesterday indicated that the right course is being pursued in his case too.

Haines, now 38, has appeared in only 14 games. That Street has adopted the proper method to get the best out of the veteran is shown by the fact that of the 10 games which Jess has pitched to a decision he has won all but two.

WITH A LEAD of eight and a half games the Cards appear to be almost as safe for the National League pennant as the A's are for the flag in the American with an advantage of 11 box scores.

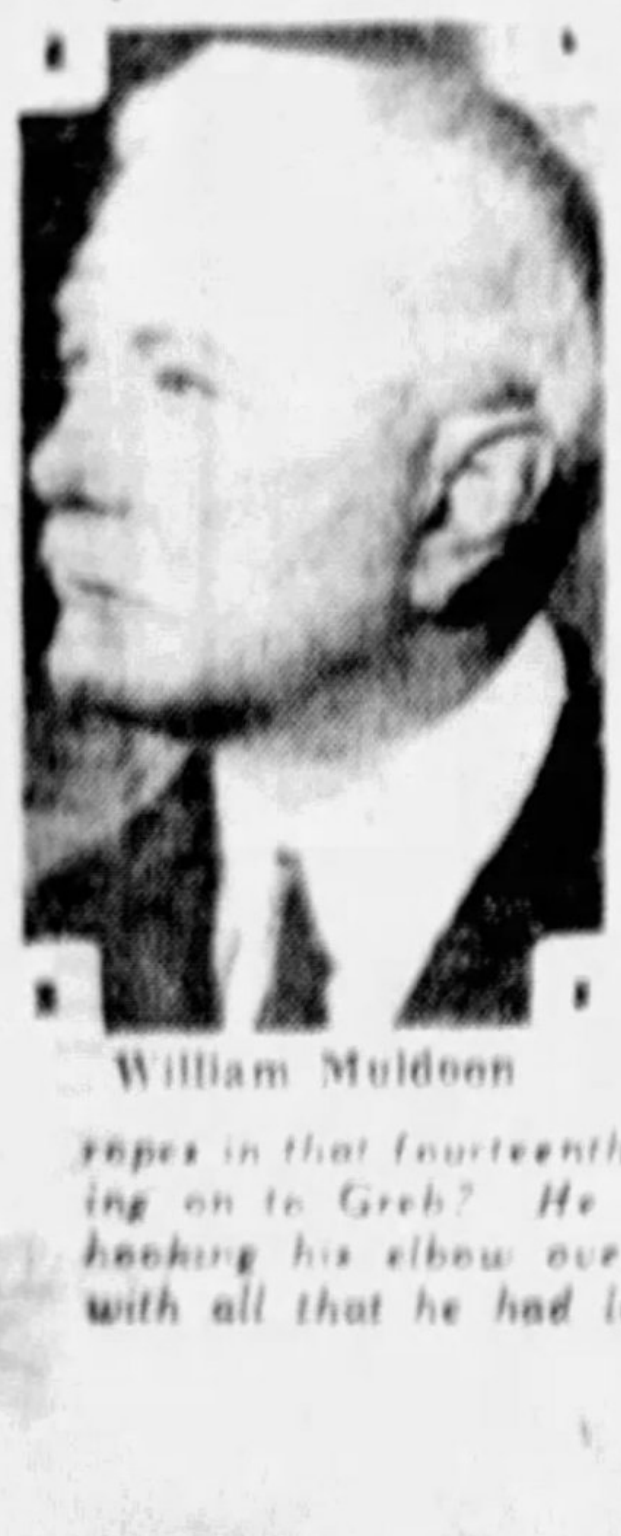
The Redbirds need to win only 28 of their remaining 57 contests, or below .500 ball, to pile up 90 victories for the year. To beat them out, in that event, the Cubs would have to win 39 out of 60, the Giants would have to win 41 out of 63, or the Robins would have to win 39 out of 56, approximately two out of three all around.

ACCORDING TO OTHER members of the Giants, Hughey Critz will not be able to play again this season, if ever. His lame throwing arm has failed to respond to treatment and some of his mates fear his playing days are over. Manager John McGraw, now laid up here with an attack of throat trouble, went on a scouting trip before coming to Pittsburgh, and, with an eye to his possible future needs at second base, looked over Bill Herman, Louisville second sacker, who is hitting .363. Meanwhile Bill Hunnefield is filling in for Critz in most acceptable style. He is playing better ball for the Giants than he ever did for the White Sox, Indians or Braves.

WHEN LEFTY GROVE registered his twelfth consecutive victory yesterday he not only equaled George Earnshaw's mark for straight wins this year, but he probably set a record as the only modern pitcher ever to win 21 of the first 23 games hurled in a season. The performance beats by one game the achievement of Rube Marquard for the Giants in 1912, the best previous modern feat than can be recalled.

Marquard won his first 19 games that year, but then lost three in a row before winning his next victory, in which, by the way, he defeated Marty O'Toole, of the Pirates, in their third duel of the season. The Rube's record, therefore, was 20 out of the first 23, or one short of Grove's.

THE PROSPECT OF a match in which the rival managers will be Joe Jacobs on one side and Jack Kearns on the other doesn't appeal to William Muldoon as a sporting proposition any more strongly than it does to any other ring followers who are not strong for that managerial type.



William Muldoon

Muldoon sees it as a match that will bring together two pilots who think more of getting the money than of sportsmanship. And yet he admits that he looks on Mickey Walker as the logical man to be sent against Max Schmeling for the heavyweight title.

"WALKER IS THE man to fight Schmeling for the championship," Muldoon says. "This because Walker is a two-fisted fighter who keeps fighting; because he can whip all the heavyweights around, and because he is the one who can whip Schmeling and bring the title back to this country. I remember the night that Walker fought Harry Greb. Greb was one of our best fighters and he had Walker going and on the ropes in that fourteenth round. Did Mickey save himself by holding on to Greb? He did not. He was holding himself up by hooking his elbow over the middle rope and yet fighting back with all that he had left."

47 MATCHES RUN OFF IN BIG EVENT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Forty-seven matches, 35 actual [illegible] and a dozen defaults, comprised the lengthy card of yesterday's matches in the second annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh public parks tennis championships in progress here since Monday on the rectangles of Schenley, West, Riverview, Frick, Olympia and Highland parks.

The men's singles sped merrily into the second, third and in West and Frick even the fourth brackets with favored performers in most cases making the pace and [illegible] falling heavily by the wayside.

Casualties were numerous on the Frick [illegible] no less than 14 debates including a quartet of defaults being disposed of under the surveillance of Committeeman Andy Smeaton and his brother Bill. Frank Broida, fixing the inauguration of his campaign to retain his Pittsburgh parks title and another leg on the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Parks Challenge Cup and to cop a trip as Steel City delegate to the national public parks championships at Detroit the week of August 17, southpawed a businesslike path past a brace of opponents to lead the Forbes-and-Braddock procession into the quarter-finals.

Bernhard Manheimer proved the premier's initial victim, 6-0, 6-3, and a bit later K. E. Luther went over the road his predecessor had taken, 6-1, 6-0.

M'ADAMS' WIN

Royal McAdams Jr. [illegible] the Frick upset of the occasion by thumping Edward Oetting, seventh seeded entrant, 6-2, 6-2, in the second round. Royal McAdams Sr. made it a family field day by battling through Fred Caldwell to a handsomely earned 6-2, 11-9 success. Other seeded stars, Nick Maczkov, George Sobel and Bob Burnett, encountered better fate than did Oetting, all three advancing.

At Riverview Jake Olko urged his proteges along to the semi-finals in which Robert Kleeb, late of Pitt, will mingle with E. J. Plunkett and Bob Meyer, last survivor of the quartet of seeded aspirants, will clash with S. A. McCorkle early this evening. Kleeb defeated Pat Moran, 8-6, 6-3, as the veteran E. J. Plunkett overwhelmed Richard Young, 6-1, 6-1. Meyer, 1930 finalist, started well against Emil Stankey, but was compelled to fall back on his reliable slicing game to pull out session two for a 6-1, 9-7 verdict.

SEMI-FINALS BILLED

The Plunkett-Kleeb affair is billed for 5:30 p. m., with the Meyer-McCorkle engagement going on about an hour later, both matches to be one best of five sets.

In the Schenley bailiwick of Austin Famarise matters followed the dope with notable exception in the case of Ted Rosenthal vs. Rudyard Boulton. Boulton, seeded eighth, found the well-rounded game of his more youthful rival too much, Rosenthal winning, 6-4, 6-1. Herb Lomask skirmishes with Gene Solow at 2:30 this afternoon in a feature fracas of the day.

Ralph Beilstein and Ray Cooper headed the march to the West Park semi-finals, the former with a 6-1, 6-2 decision over Clyde Smith, and the latter through 6-3, 6-1 tally at the expense of Herb Lauterbach.

Dr. John O'Loughlin's Highland troupe was just two encounters short of filling out the quarter-final grouping when darkness de-

FAIRMONT FATE KNOWN FRIDAY

FAIRMONT, W. Va., July 29.—Elmer Daily, president of the Middle Atlantic League, and Russell Hawkinberry, secretary, spent last night here and shoved off today for Beaver Falls, Pa., to attend the home opener of that club.

While here, Daily held a conference with the local club owners and announced a decision as to the Fairmont franchise must be reached by Friday. He promised Fairmont players definite action by that time. The club will attempt to raise $5,000 through an underwriting plan.

If the plan carries, the franchise will be retained and the Charleroi franchise will go to Canton, O. If not, both clubs will be dropped and a 10-club circuit maintained, Daily said.

Pat Haley, former Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletic catcher, who managed the Wheeling club in 1929, has been signed again by the Stogie management. He will handle the pitching staff. Danny Tapson will continue as manager.

Huntington and Fairmont split in their doubleheader yesterday, the former winning the first contest, 5-0, and the latter the nightcap, 2-1. Scottdale trimmed Charleston, 11 to 4, and Cumberland tripped Youngstown, 5-3.

Beaver Falls lost to Wheeling, 5-4, Clarksburg beat Beckley, 4-2, and Johnstown set down Charleroi, 9-7.

Stephenson Lost To Cubs for Season

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—Riggs Stephenson, left fielder of the Chicago Cubs, will be out of action for the rest of the season, it was indicated today. An X-ray revealed that he suffered a fracture of a small bone in his right ankle when he stepped on first base Monday. It was thought at first it was only a sprain.

MARCHIONESS RACE VICTOR

TORONTO, July 29.—(AP.)—The Auburn (N. Y.) owned mare, the Marchioness, captured the 2-year-old trot, feature of the Grand Circuit meeting yesterday.

THREE GOLF EVENTS TODAY

Three golf events are being held today on district links. Women's invitation tournaments are in progress at the Alcoma and Butler Country clubs, and St. Clair and Chartiers Heights are battling it out in the last half of their home-and-home team match at Chartiers Heights.

Carl F. Kauffmann ventures forth en route to St. Paul, where next week he will shoot for his fourth national public links title, while the other members of the local team, Carl Lunden, Francis Lally and Harry Ramsay, entrain tonight.

S. Walter Phillips and Jim O'Neil, paying their own expenses as alternates, start a motor trip to the scene of action tonight, also. Ken Witherow is slated to go Friday.

The qualifying round for the National P. G. A. championship has been slated for the Fox Chapel Golf Club August 24. Two places will be secured on the 36-hole route.

Entries for the mixed two-ball foursome Friday at the Pittsburgh Field Club, and the qualifying round, Saturday, for the right to play Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, August 8, at the Summit Golf Club, Uniontown, are said to be increasing daily.

Jim Mullen Loses Promoting License

CHICAGO, July 29.—(INS.)—Jim Mullen, veteran promoter, was deprived of his license today by the Illinois Athletic Commission for failure to pay Ace Hudkins his share of the King Levinsky fight proceeds.

Mullen failed to answer the commission's citation when Clyde Hudkins, brother and manager of Ace, claimed Ace's purse of approximately $2,000 was unpaid.

The commission also received a $2,500 forfeit by Jack Kearns for a match between Mickey Walker and Max Schmeling for the heavyweight title here next spring.

OSA STOPPED BY RETZLAFF

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—New York had another look at two of the finest young heavyweight prospects in the business, and Queensboro Stadium groaned under a capacity crowd of 14,000 last night, who turned out to see Charley Retzlaff and Steve Hamas continue their knockout parade.

Retzlaff scored his thirtieth knockout in 34 engagements, flattening Mateo Osa, from Spain, with one booming right-hand uppercut to the chin in the third round of the scheduled 10-round main bout.

Hamas, working a bit easier, plastered Frank Morris, heavyweight champion of the New York National Guard, all over the premises for seven rounds. He floored him five times before the referee called a halt and a technical knockout in the seventh round.

Valentine Campolo, younger brother of Big Victorio, knocked out Gus Rodenberg, New York heavyweight, in the second round.

Tener to Speak At Groskloss Fete

Hampden Tener, captain of last year's Amherst College football eleven, will be the principal speaker at a testimonial dinner to be tendered Howard Groskloss, second baseman of the Pirates and former Amherst football and baseball star, by the Western Pennsylvania Alumni Association of the college at the Yale, Harvard, Princeton Club, William Penn way, Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Several members of the Pirates also will attend. Amherst men active in arranging the affair include Mitchell DeGroff, Thomas P. Trimble, Jr., William J. Kyle, James D. Harlan, Karl Henninger and Ned Hemmingway.

HALE SOLD TO INDIANS

NEW ORLEANS, July 29.—(AP.)—Sammy Hale, infielder for the New Orleans Pelicans, has been sold to the Cleveland Indians. George Detore is to come to New Orleans on option.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Well, the Pirate winning streak has been snapped, and there was a lot of moaning and groaning in the Pirate clubhouse last night as a result of the 6-to-2 first setback sustained by the Freebooters in six games. The Buccos have a strong fondness for Umpire Ted McGrew, who seems to be a popular official in many quarters, but Ted apparently kicked one all over the infield in the eighth inning and a moment later Carl Hubbell let fly with a double that ruined the Buccos for the afternoon. Had McGrew called Hunnefield out at first, when to all intents and purposes he was out, the inning would have ended right there.

Manager Ens stated this morning he probably would send the youthful Charley Wood to the slab in the third game of the series. Bill Walker is due to work for the enemy, so a southpaw duel appears imminent.

MISSED DOUBLE PLAY

The Giants yesterday carried a one-run lead into the eighth. The Pirates insist that Ted missed what would have been a beautiful double play reeled off by Thevenow, Phillips, Traynor and Suhr. In the Buccos' half of the eighth the home guards had Traynor on third, with what should have been the tying tally, P. Waner on first and only one out.

The same P. Waner chose this time to enact a play that was just as bad as McGrew's.

Had McGrew ruled correctly in the play at first in the first half of the inning, Brother Paul probably would not have engineered such a foolish piece of base running. The Pirates were three runs behind and Paul's play, bad as it was, hardly lost the game.

PLAYERS FLAY UMPS

Gus Suhr hit a long fly to right, which gave Pie an easy passport to the plate. Paul came back, touched up, and then made a foolish break for second. He was doubled and the last play was executed a flash ahead of Traynor's arrival at the home plate. Umpire Magerkurth seemed to indicate by his first gesture that the run counted, but when Acting Manager Bancroft ran from the Giant dugout, Magerkurth reversed himself. Be that as it may, P. Waner was tagged before Pie reached the plate.

Some of the Pirate players came out boldly with the assertion that the umpires will now favor the Giants on close plays owing to John McGraw's published criticism of the officials.

How McGrew was able to give a safe decision on Hunnefield is hard to understand. Those who had as good a view as the official took violent exception to the ruling.

Marshall was on third, Jackson on second, Hunnefield at bat and one out. Hunnefield hit to Thevenow, who threw to Phillips. Jackson was boxed, and Traynor touched him out as Phillips tossed him the ball. Meantime, Hunne-

DOEG LEADS AT SEABRIGHT

VINES, SUTTER, TIDBALL IN SEMI-FINAL

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 29.—(AP)—John Hope Doeg, national champion, led the field into the semi-final round of men's singles in the Seabright invitation tennis tournament yesterday. He had to travel three sets to conquer the Atlantan, Bryan Grant, Jr., dropping the first set and trailing 4-5 in the second before he pounded out a 2-6, 7-5, 6-2 victory.

TIDBALL VICTOR

The other three semi-final brackets were filled by Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Cal.; Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles, 19-year-old sophomore at the University of California, and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans.

Tidball sprang the big upset when he defeated Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, No. 6 in the national ranking, 4-6, 8-6, 8-6.

Vines was extended to beat Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., Kansas City, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0, and Sutter trounced Keith Gledhill, intercollegiate titleholder, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

HELEN MOODY ADVANCES

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody's second-round triumph over Virginia Rice, of Boston, 6-0, 6-1, featured play in the women's division.

Her probable opponent in the finals Saturday, Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., had no easy time downing Mianne Palfrey, of Boston, 6-0, 7-5.

Mrs. Moody today plays Baroness Giacomo Levi, of New York. Miss Jacobs' rival will be Mae Ceurvorst, of Wichita, Kas., who scored an impressive win over the first 10 ranking star, Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, 6-4, 8-6.

MANLEY BEATS RYAN

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 29.—(AP)—Billy Manley, Charleston, was given a judges' decision over Frankie Ryan, Wheeling, in a 10-round bout here last night. At the conclusion of the fight the referee announced a draw decision but W. E. Connell, deputy boxing commissioner for Charleston, later said the judges had awarded the fight to Manley. The weights were Ryan, 168, and Manley, 165.

CAPABLANCA WINS

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 29.—(AP)—Jose R. Capablanca, of Cuba, yesterday won his chess match with Dr. Max Euwe of Holland. The score stands 2-0 in favor of Capablanca.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—I see President Heydler, of the National League, announces he will stand in back of his umpires. All I can say is I wish the president of the American League would stand in back of his umpires and see what they are calling strikes and balls.

Nick Altrock

If Connie Mack had a $10,000 infield 20 years ago, he's got a billion dollar pitcher's box today.

No matter who Connie drops into it, he comes out with a winning game.

Compared with almost any other big league club, the A's pitching staff looks like a string of perfectly matched pearls alongside a heap of oyster shells.

RESORT SPORT CARD FULL

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 29.—An attractive program of sporting events is listed for visitors at Point Chautauqua this summer. Baseball and soft ball, bowling, swimming, tennis, boat races and track and field contests are on the schedule for this month.

Soft ball games are listed for every Tuesday and Friday, with bowling matches booked every day and a special tournament getting under way August 22 for both men and women. A silver cup will be given the victors.

Special handicap sweepstakes for the golfers are listed for each Saturday, together with a ringer tournament (best score for each hole throughout the season). Golf balls will be awarded.

The Point tennis tournament will get under way August 13 and will continue through August 15. The horseshoe tourney will be held August 18 and 19.

Boat races will be held August 26. The races will be for rowboats, with a man rowing and a woman piloting. The distance will be one mile.

On September 5, the track and field championship meet will be run off. Medals will be awarded the winners.

LINWOOD, ACES WIN TILTS

Linwood blanked Turtle Creek 6-0 and the Homestead Aces nosed out Reliance Life 3-2 in yesterday's West Penn League battles. City League contests resulted in Homewood tripping Book 7-5 and J. L. Thomas beating the North Side Bucks 14-2.

Methodist and St. Philips played a 5-all tie in the Crafton Church League, and the Riecks whipped B. & O. 10-4 in the C. & I. circuit.

Edgewood stopped Pintex 12-0 and Immaculate Heart topped the Smiths 13-9 in the Greater Pittsburgh League.

DePasquale, Snee and East End Cards won in the Steel City circuit and Fineview in the North Side loop.

St. Louis Mayor Bets $3,000 at 5-1 on Cards

ST. LOUIS, July 29.—(AP)—Mayor Victor Miller of St. Louis has $3,000 worth of confidence in the Cardinals winning another National League pennant. And if they do he will collect $15,000. Right now they are eight and one-half games in the lead.

The Mayor has disclosed he has a 5-to-1 bet the 1930 champions will repeat. Last year he wagered $500 at 6 to 1, he said, and this year he placed the $3,000.

OTHER SIZES IN PROPORTION

Right now you can buy at record-breaking low prices the improved 1931 edition of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Tire.

It is today and has been for 16 years the first-choice tire of the world.

This is not a mere claim; an unbiased public institution recently asked American motorists the question, "What tire is best?"

The vote, nation-wide and uninfluenced in any way, showed a preference for Goodyears nearly 2¼ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

If you want safety and mileage and style in full measure in the tires you buy now, you needn't deny yourself on account of cost.

This great new Goodyear sells today at the lowest prices ever, and at no premium over less popular makes of standard tires.

It is the smartest-looking equipment you can put upon your car, and it'll pile up performance for you that only top-quality can give.

Look at the tire and how low it's priced, then ask yourself the question: "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

Giants' Bats—80 of 'Em, All in a Row!

AND THAT YOUNG FELLOW WORKING OUT AT THE RIGHT IS EDDIE BAKER, FORMER PITT STAR

You wouldn't think any baseball team would need 80 bats for a single game, but here's the photographic proof on the way the New York Giants go in for the lumber. Photo shows the lineup of war clubs in front of the McGrawmen's dugout at Forbes Field. Eddie Baker, former Pitt football and basketball star, and now a local sandlot baseball outfielder, is getting a tryout with the New York team during its series against the Pirates here and has been showing up well in the practice sessions.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

With another Buck McTiernan-Jimmy Belmont bout in at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, for the night of August 17, as exclusively announced in yesterday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the local promoters are making other attractive matches for the outdoor arenas featuring mainly district talent, which finally has the fans coming out in paying numbers after imported boxers with reputations failed to make the riffle.

Johnny Jadich

The Bowl next week shows Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City Italian heavyweight, against Tuffy Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., in its feature event. The following Monday night Johnny Jadich, of Philadelphia, recent conqueror of Tony Herrera at the Bowl, returns there against Sammy Dorfman of New York, who won over Eddie Brannon in impressive fashion in the same ring.

Meanwhile Hickey Park, in Millvale, is shaping some fine plans. It shows Billy Jones, Negro light-heavyweight star of Philadelphia and formerly of Pittsburgh, against Rosy Rosales of Cleveland in the windup tomorrow night, and on Thursday of next week presents Bucky Lawless of Auburn, N. Y., who pleased in losing to Ted Yarosz at the Bowl last Monday, against Donald Fagg of Clinton, Ind., who recently snared a win over Buck McTiernan at Huntington, W. Va. A bout between Jackie Rodgers and Archie Bell is in the making for August 13, and on August 20 Ted Yarosz will meet an opponent to be selected.

Johnny Ray likely will be the new manager of Young Mahor, Charleroi welterweight, who is about to make a new start following a layoff of almost a year. Mahor has lost only seven bouts in almost 100 starts and still boasts the most versatile left hand in these parts.

Marty Gornick, Whitaker lightweight star, meets Johnny Curtin in a 10 rounder at Dayton, O., tonight. It will be recalled that he recently stopped Joey Lawrence in a battle in that town and registered a hit that led to the Curtin engagement.

Dr. W. D. McFarland, new Boxing Commissioner, will be host at a [illegible] dinner with newspapermen to be held prior to the fights at Hickey Park tomorrow night.

BUCS RELEASE BENNETT

The Pirates have released Fred Bennett, outfielder, to the Fort Worth club of the Texas League and he is expected either tonight or tomorrow for his new berth.

The announcement was made today by the Pirate officials. The release was outright. Bennett played in the Texas League in 1929 and was one of the hardest hitters in the circuit.

Later he was obtained by the St. Louis Browns, who sent him to Milwaukee. This year he was declared a free agent by Commissioner K. M. Landis and signed by the Pirates. The Browns claimed he belonged to them and made a legal fight to retain his services, but lost in the courts.

NATS GET SLAB STAR

BALTIMORE, July 29.—(AP)—Monte Weaver, pitcher, has been sold by the Baltimore club of the International League to Washington of the American. George Weiss, manager of the Orioles, announced today. An unnamed sum in cash and three players were given as the purchase price.

Weaver, former teacher of mathematics at the University of Virginia, is 24 years old, 6 feet tall and weighs 180. He is a right-hander and ace of the Oriole staff. His home is in Lansing, N. C.

BRAME COLLAPSES

The Bucs from that moment just played to finish the ball game.

Ervin Brame collapsed in the seventh inning yesterday after pitching fine ball. Erv appeared to weaken in the heat and after he had walked the winning run on the sacks Erv stopped the battle to confer with Capt. Traynor and the pitcher. Glenn Spencer warmed up in a hurry, it seemed, and before he could light, Fred Leach socked him for a three-bagger that scored both the tying and winning runs.

Carl Hubbell and his screw ball gave the Pirates trouble through most of the battle.

The Bucs bunched four hits in the fourth to annex two runs, the Giants making their first tally in the fifth on three hits. Brame began to weaken in the seventh as the Giants forged ahead.

ADVERSE STEEL ACTION GIVES STOCKS JOLT

Trading Speeds Up From Recent Lows; Decline One Of Sharpest This Year

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.) The stock market was driven to the lowest levels since the middle of June today by the adverse dividend and earnings announcements of the largest steel maker.

Trading quickened considerably from recent low levels but was in limited volume judged by standards of recent years. The decline was one of the sharpest of the year, however, with numerous losses of 2 to nearly 10 points appearing in prominent issues.

United States Steel common opened 3 points lower, then extended its loss to more than 7, in response to the unexpectedly sharp reduction in the annual dividend rate to $4 from $7. Bethlehem Steel, directors of which meet for dividend action tomorrow, dropped more than 5 points to a new low for the present stock.

Despite the deepened gloom over the unprofitable state of the basic steel industry, the weekly steel trade reviews reported a moderate quickening of steel mill activity, an unusual development for midsummer. Most estimates placed ingot output at 32 per cent of capacity, against 30 per cent a week previously.

United States Steel's quarterly earnings report, showing net income from actual operations of only 6 cents per share of preferred stock, had repercussions throughout the leading financial centers of the world, even unsettling the Paris market, although the stock is not traded there. A leading financial news service estimated that earnings for the entire year will set a new low record for the 30-year history of this premier industrial enterprise.

The action of the directors in finally making a drastic slash in the dividend and ordering a downward revision of office workers' salaries, was regarded in several quarters as a constructive move, however, bringing a step nearer the completion of necessary deflation. The fact that no action was taken on wages was variously interpreted. Some observers felt that the corporation regarded the future with enough hope to feel that a wage reduction could be avoided.

Money was a little firmer, presumably reflecting the month-end requirements. Call money held officially at 1½ per cent, with virtually no concessions in the outside market.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 29.—Downturns in wheat prices early today accompanied weakness of securities. A steadying influence, however, was strength shown by the Liverpool wheat market as a result of Canadian government crop report. Opening unchanged to ½ cent off, wheat later held near the initial limits.

Corn started at ¼ decline to ⅛ advance and afterward tended to sag.

NARROW RANGE IN LOCAL STOCKS

Local Securities Remain Steady as New York List Sags on Steel's Action

Prices held steady on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in the early dealings today, with initial transactions showing only minor changes from the levels prevailing on the close last night. The local list ignored the sharp opening drop on the big board, where first prices were down from one to five points or more, induced by the reduction in the United States Steel dividend.

Volume of trading here showed a slight increase but was not enough to indicate more than nominal trading interest in the market. Mesta Machine, Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt and Hachmeister all came into the market unchanged. Pittsburgh Plate Glass sold off a fraction point to 34, but only a few shares changed hands. The fuel issues were dull but maintained a fairly steady tone.

WEEK'S POWER OUTPUT UP

NEW YORK, July 29.—Production of electricity by the electric light and power industry of the United States for the week ended July 25 totaled 1,680,[illegible] kilowatt hours. Although it showed an increase over the previous week, the total was 1.9 per cent below the like week last year. The Atlantic seaboard showed an increase of 1.4 per cent above last year. The Central industrial region, outlined by Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Milwaukee, registered a decrease of 4.5 per cent, although the Chicago district showed a decrease of only eight-tenths of 1 per cent. The Pacific coast showed a gain of two-tenths of 1 per cent over a year ago.

Commodity Price Trend Is Upward

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP.)—Belief that commodity prices, in practically all cases, have passed their lows for the next year or more is expressed in a survey issued today by Standard Statistics Company.

The survey pointed out that commodity prices in general during the past month registered the first definite reversal of trend since the inauguration of the abrupt decline in the early summer of 1929.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

CANDY BOX TRADE

Exacting demands made by candy manufacturers in their purchases of holiday supplies have caused many candy box manufacturers and lithographers to revise their present lines, it was learned in the trade. The candy box producers have dropped many of the conventional Christmas numbers and have appealed to designers for new patterns based on modified modernistic motifs and on colonial and early American scenes.

GUARANTEE PRICES

Practically all of the important manufacturers of balbriggan underwear are filling reorders on goods with a guarantee to buyers against the price reductions which are expected to be put into effect when the new spring lines are opened around Labor Day, trade circles report. Some of the mills held off as long as possible against this practice, but buyers became insistent, it was said, and most of the producers agreed to sell "at value" toward the close of last week.

M'KESSON & ROBBINS

McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport (Conn.) subsidiary of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., of Maryland, will erect a Canadian branch factory in Montreal. Initial investment will exceed $1,000,000 and the Connecticut company expects to do $10,000,000 business in Canada in its first year. Establishment of this new plant follows recent increase in Canadian tariff on drugs to 25 per cent from 17½ per cent. New plant is the fifth branch of United States company to locate in Montreal during past five months.

LATIN-AMERICAN TRADE

American exporters will be given an opportunity to express their opinions as to the effect which trade barriers have had on Latin-American trade through a questionnaire sent out by the American Manufacturers' Export Association. The group, acting at the request of the Pan-American Union, is gathering data which will be used in discussions of tariff questions at a meeting of the Pan-American Union scheduled for Washington in October.

FALL RUG PRICES

Reports that discounts allowed by rug producers on volume orders for low price domestic orientals will be more liberal this fall were current in the New York trade. The change in policy is to enable retailers to obtain a better mark-up on the washed rugs, it was said, and was decided upon by producers who are faced with keen competition from the Wilton rug manufacturers.

GERMAN CRISIS QUICKENED BY LOAN CUT

Drop of 25 Per Cent in Commodity Prices Adds To Reparations Burden

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, July 29.—The [illegible] seven powers [illegible] a stop [illegible] German [illegible] economic [illegible].

The Hoover program was designed to [illegible] fears of [illegible]

Mr. Rukeyser

[illegible] aims of keeping Germany weak on the one hand and insisting on the payment of reparations on the other.

LENIENCY NECESSARY

When it became apparent that the exactions were too great, a new shuffle in the direction of moderation was made in the Dawes plan of 1924. Experience showed that further leniency was necessary, and the Young plan was accepted in 1929. But the real reparations paying capacity of Germany was never really tested, as the Teutonic nation, short of capital, borrowed in New York and elsewhere during the reparations paying period. The present crisis is the result in part of the cessation or drastic reduction of foreign lending to Germany. The second fact which heightened the crisis was the decline of more than 25 per cent in commodity prices since 1929, which added correspondingly to Germany's real burden in paying reparations.

Perhaps no living German has studied the economics of reparations more thoroughly than Dr. Hialmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank who resigned in protest after the meeting at The Hague in 1929 which added political conditions to the Young plan. Whatever one may think of Dr. Schacht's political views, outside observers recognize his vast financial talent and many believe that he is the strongest financier alive in Germany today. It is my own opinion that in the period of credit rehabilitation ahead, Germany ought to recall Herr Schacht from private life.

WELL REGARDED

Prior to his resignation, Herr Schacht was well regarded by his fellow heads of the great central banks of the world. He co-operated effectively with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and the late Benjamin Strong, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the dominating personality for many years in the American central banking system. Dr. Schacht has fully presented his views in a new volume entitled "The End of Reparations."

Dr. Schacht warns the world:

"We cannot avoid this conclusion: either reparations must be renounced, or the German people must be enabled to earn reparations . . . Germany's European market can be expanded; she can be enabled to develop her own raw materials if her colonies are returned to her; new markets can be opened to her industrial products."

PENNSYLVANIA OIL RAISED

The Joseph Seep Agency, Standard Oil purchaser in this district, has advanced the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oils 20 cents a barrel, effective today. The new prices are: Pennsylvania oil in National Transit lines, $1.55; in Southwest Pennsylvania lines, $1.40; in Eureka lines, $1.30; in Buckeye lines, $1.15. Corning grade oil in Buckeye lines was raised 15 cents, to 65 cents a barrel.

The new prices offset a cut announced July 11 and add 5 cents to the posted prices on Pennsylvania grade crude prevailing June 3. Corning grade also is restored to the June 3 price.

Operators in the Pennsylvania field have been producing on a curtailed basis for some months past, the reduction amounting to 30 per cent in all districts outside the Bradford-Allegany area, where the output has been 50 per cent less than normal. The Pennsylvania grade crude field includes Western Pennsylvania, Southeastern New York, West Virginia and Eastern Ohio.

Crops in Canada Hurt by Drought

MONTREAL, July 29.—The Canadian government crop report says in part that the past week of excessively high temperatures, hot winds and almost negligible precipitation, was one of the most disastrous of the season in its effect on western crops.

Brokers' Views On Steel

E. F. Hutton & Co.—In our opinion the [illegible] Steel's [illegible] will not be [illegible] a dividend [illegible]. Rather in the [illegible] operations will continue on an unsatisfactory basis [illegible] the real basis for an accurate appraisal. It is doubtful whether any future United States Steel [illegible] during the life of [illegible] show up to [illegible]. Consequently [illegible] reason Steel [illegible] the bad news. But there [illegible] earnings [illegible] levels for some time to come and this possibility in our opinion is the sole reason for postponing purchases of United States Steel.

Hornblower & Weeks — We feel the announcement that came out of the United States Steel directors' meeting yesterday was considerably more pessimistic than had been anticipated by the street. We continue to stress the fact that this stock will scarcely attract an investment demand below a 5½ per cent yield particularly as the majority of its preferred dividend is currently being paid out of surplus. We now feel it is more logical to expect Steel common to settle well into the 70s over the course of the next month. The public will scarcely be in a frame of mind to buy stocks in view of the fact that the Steel directors view the business prospects as so mediocre, that it has already attacked the problem of reducing salaries.

J. S. Bache & Co. to A. F. Masten & Co.—With the adverse United States Steel news out of the way it seems to us that accumulation will progress at an accelerated pace. The lower security prices that professional efforts and discouraged liquidating activities will force will in our opinion be welcomed by long-sighted investors for the further absorption of desirable speculative mediums at attractive prices. We believe the present accumulating stage is within two weeks of its completion and look forward to an upward trend of security prices to be established thereafter.

Hemphill Noyes & Co.—Today's market is faced with a great deal of pessimistic news and the prospect of further wage and dividend readjustments by other major corporations which will undoubtedly follow the Steel Corporation's lead. The statement on salary adjustments is a blow to the former policies of the government. It is most unfortunate that if such action was necessary it was not done some time ago, for it seems a blow to what little optimism and confidence the investing public had acquired recently.

Josephthal & Co. to H. S. Edwards & Co.—The reduction in the United States Steel dividend and the announcement of a reduction in salaries will again test the market's ability to withstand bad news, and considerable investment liquidation must be logically expected. Undoubtedly, the street will place a bearish interpretation on the action. How the action will affect the market depends largely upon the reaction of investors.

Hentz & Co.—The only favorable fact that may be gleaned from the action of the United States Steel directors is that they believe, despite the extreme depression, that they will be able to cover a $1 quarterly rate later on.

Aluminum Output Affected By Depression

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE SHUTTING DOWN of operations at the Niagara Falls plant of the Aluminum Company of America reflects the general decline in the demand for the company's products due to current business conditions. The Niagara Falls plant is the oldest as well as the smallest unit for the production of pig aluminum and aluminum sheets. Naturally this would be the first plant to suffer from a complete shutdown.

Operations at other plants vary widely, depending on the type of material being produced and conditions in the markets being served. Production in general is below the level of last year which in turn was substantially under the volume of 1929. The company does not make public definite figures on operations at individual plants.

While the Aluminum Company has suffered in common with other industries from reduced sales, it has not been faced with competitive conditions forcing price reductions as has been the case with iron, steel, copper and most other metals. This is due to the fact that the Aluminum Company is the only producer of pig aluminum in the United States and that its only direct competition is from foreign organizations.

Other Prices Important

PRICE COMPETITION HAS BEEN a factor, however, in instances where the use of aluminum or some other metal is optional. As an example, cable for the transmission of electric power can be made either of copper or aluminum. Naturally copper is a more serious competitor in this field at eight cents a pound than it was at 18 or 20 cents a pound.

Earnings in 1930 declined sharply under those of 1929. Net profit after taxes, depreciation, depletion and interest was $11,672,727 which was equivalent to $1.93 a share on 1,472,625 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends. This compared with a profit of $25,318,051 or $11.19 a share in 1929 and with $20,672,750 or $6.54 a share in 1928.

Economies Undertaken

IT IS TOO EARLY to make any accurate predictions of earnings for the present year. It seems quite probable that sales will be lower than in 1930. On the other hand, the management has undertaken extensive operating economies and has reduced working forces to conform with changed conditions in the business.

The company has a relatively small funded debt in comparison to its earnings and the value of its physical properties. At the close of 1930 the only fixed indebtedness consisted of $38,067,000 of 5 per cent debentures due in 1952. In 1927 $60,000,000 of these bonds were issued. Since that time $21,933,000 have been retired.

At the close of 1930 plants and equipment were carried at $111,502,665 after deducting depreciation and depletion. Total assets amounted to $242,986,667. The company had an investment in affiliated and subsidiary companies carried at $51,984,921.

Inventories Increased

FOLLOWING ITS USUAL policy of accumulating stock of aluminum during dull times to meet peak demands when business is active, the company increased its inventory $8,384,965 to a total of $38,282,486 during 1930. Current assets of $74,949,849 at the close of 1930 were 3.7 times current liabilities. Cash amounted to $3,472,497 and marketable securities to $23,857,416.

It will be noted that the funded debt was slightly less than the figure at which inventories were carried and that it was substantially less than the net working capital of $54,990,688.

IRON AGE SEES BRIGHT SIDE

NEW YORK, July 29.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel market tomorrow will say:

An out-of-season gain in ingot production, continued buoyancy in scrap and the decision of Steel Corporation directors to maintain wage rates are regarded as constructive factors in an exceedingly quiet iron and steel market.

Steel plant operations have risen at Cleveland, Buffalo, Youngstown and in the Wheeling district, and ingot production for the country at large now averages 32 per cent, as against 30 per cent a week ago. The upturn has come at an unusual time—midsummer—and followed an unbroken decline since March. It is difficult to assign a reason for the change unless it be that steel output dipped below the "rock bottom" requirements of the country. And it is too early to foresee whether the gain will be followed by further increase or by relapses to lower rates.

The conviction that business is slowly, if almost imperceptibly, on the mend is read into the action of the Steel Corporation directors in maintaining wage rates, after a reduction had been almost universally forecast. Possibly the fact that the corporation's operating rate has risen from a recent low of 30 per cent to approximately 34 per cent of capacity turned the scales against a step that would probably have been taken if an indefinite continuance of unprofitable operations seemed to be in prospect. At any rate the corporation's report is widely interpreted as an indication of faith in the future and should operate to restore the repeatedly shaken confidence of industry in general.

Newton Reported In Steel Merger

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 29.—(INS)—Reports that Newton Steel Company will be included in a rumored consolidation of Mahoning valley independent steel companies, which may be effected next year, prevaded Youngstown financial circles today, following the company's announcement that its executive offices are being moved to Detroit.

For the past several years, it was said, the Newton concern has been favorable to merger suggestions.

Hog Slaughtering Lower at Chicago

CHICAGO, July 29.—Hog slaughterings at Chicago for the season from March 1 to July 25 totaled 2,290,000 head against 2,538,000 head in like 1930 season, a decrease of 9.3 per cent.

CAR LOADINGS DECREASE

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ending July 18, were announced today by the American Railway Association as totaling 757,555 cars.

This was a decrease of 6,026 cars from the preceding week and a decrease of 170,716 cars from the corresponding week last year.

Miscellaneous freight loading totaled 285,941 cars, 73,142 cars below the corresponding week in 1930; grain and grain products, 60,127 cars, decrease 4,028; forest products, 27,891 cars, decrease 14,274; ore loading, 36,900 cars, decrease 25,109; merchandise, 213,294 cars, decrease 19,879; coal, 109,144 cars, decrease 27,661; coke, 4,548 cars, decrease 3,982; livestock, 19,710 cars, decrease 2,641.

Refused Railroad Building Permit

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(INS)—Examiners of the Interstate Commerce Commission today recommended that it deny the application of the Missouri Pacific and the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico railroads for authority to operate, under trackage rights, over the line of the Louisiana Railway & Navigation Company, between East Baton Rouge parish to New Orleans, and to construct a bridge over the Mississippi river at Baton Rouge.

Ford Motor Plants Close for 'Vacation'

DETROIT, July 29.—Ford Motor plants are expected to close after today's work and remain closed throughout August. The assembly line, however, will continue operations at Detroit and at 11 of the 36 assembly branches throughout the country. A large bank of parts has been built up at all places and outside parts producers have been notified not to make shipments after July 29 and during August.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 29.—Cotton opened easy today, 14 to 19 points lower. The decline carried prices below the previous low records for the season established on June 8, October sold off to 8.71c and at around the end of the first half hour the market was within a point or two of the lows, representing net losses of 15 to 17 points.

Although partial rallies occurred early in the session, selling was quite general. December sold up from 8.71c to 8.79c and at around midday was quoted at 8.75c, with the general market net 12 to 15 points lower.

LIVERPOOL, July 29.—Cotton—Spot quiet; prices 6 points lower. American strict good middling 5.47d; good middling 5.12d; strict middling 4.97d; middling 4.72d; strict low middling 4.57d; low middling 4.57d; strict good ordinary 4.17d; good ordinary 3.87d. Sales 4,000 bales, including 1,300 American. Receipts 4,000 bales, American 1,300. Futures closed quiet and steady; July 4.49d; October 4.57d; December 4.64d; January 4.68d; March 4.77d; May 4.84d.

Stock Exchange Topics

Wall Street Encouraged By Signs of Pickups In Several Lines

The Street has been heartened by increasing signs of improved trade conditions in several lines. Textiles, which have suffered for many years, are improving, particularly in woolen markets; sugar conditions are considerably improved, and there are some signs of betterment in oil conditions. There have been distinct signs of interest in such stocks, and any improvement in the foreign situation would bring more buying in these.

Loose-Wiles in reporting $1.70 a common share on 548,303 shares against $1.73 a share on 500,000 shares for the like 1930 period, actually showed an increase in business for the first half of the year. Net applicable to the common shares was $1,067,433, against $1,010,752 in 1930. There has been a steady demand for this stock from investment sources, and with the second half of the year usually better than the first, it is obvious that the country's second largest cracker concern is making a good showing in this uncertain year.

Allied Chemical has sold off rather easily in the last few days on reports that the cartel in Europe, working on a nitrate agreement, has failed again. The synthetic interests have large stocks on hand and apparently are going to get rid of them, irrespective of price cuts, and so the situation for this important munition and fertilizer product is not so comfortable. Allied never has been a partner to the cartel, and it has cut operations at its plant at Hopewell, Va., to 25 per cent of capacity, but with lower prices in the offing, naturally earnings from this big department will be reduced.

Howard Kellogg, president of Spencer Kellogg Sons, Inc., said that although orders for current delivery remain about the same, orders for future delivery are showing a slight increase. Mr. Kellogg added that this year's dividend requirements will be covered by a substantial margin.

There has been some buying of Butterick on the fact that six months' profits showed a substantial improvement. Earnings were $2.23 a share compared with $2.18 for the entire year of 1930. Furthermore, advertising is expected to show more improvement in the next six months, according to interests close to the company.

Comparisons of earnings do not make such alarming reading for they are compared with previous slack quarters and half-year showings. Probably that is one of the reasons why many second quarter showings did not come up to the bear expectations, and of course, the drastic economies put into effect by many corporations improved their showing.

Auto Registrations Recede in June

DETROIT, July 29.—Registrations of new passenger cars in the United States in June amounted to 201,911, compared to 247,727 in May and 260,946 in June, 1930. Six months' registrations totaled 1,177,120, against 1,653,642 in the first half of 1930.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Foster Wheeler Corporation for six months ended June 30 shows net income of $10,828, after charges, taxes and depreciation, against $1,079,630 in the first half of 1930.

Eastern Rolling Mills Company reports net loss for June quarter of $151,198 after depreciation, etc., against net profit of $18,414 in the second quarter of 1930.

Warner Company reports for six months ended June 30, 1931, net income of $165,951 after depreciation and federal taxes. In the six months ended June 30, 1930, company reported surplus available for common stocks of $383,154, equal to $1.[illegible] a share on 234,048 no-par shares of common stock.

Sharpe & Dohme, Inc., reports net profit for quarter ended June 30, 1931, was $278,417 after charges, depreciation and federal taxes against $341,316 in second quarter of previous year. For six months ended June 30 last, net profit was $554,835 after charges and taxes compared with $614,326 in first half of 1930.

Molybdenum Corporation has had a successful July in the sale of its boron reagent, a comparatively new development in the copper and brass industry. The profits from this product have been the best this year. This reagent gives greater electric conductivity to copper and increases its mechanical strength. There are indications of still greater use in the brass industry.

Savage Arms Company net loss for six months was $160,580 after charges, against net loss of $52,682 in the first half of 1930.

Atlantic Gulf and West Indies Steamship Lines reports May deficit, after taxes and charges, of $12,652, against surplus of $20,207 in May, 1930. For five months surplus after taxes and charges totaled $398,195, comparing with surplus of $1,262,043 in the like 1930 period.

Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation today reported for the first half net income of $209,856, compared with $1,052,732 in the like period of 1930. The general balance sheet as of June 30, 1931, showed that cash had increased to $7,096,763, as compared with $4,770,378 last year.

American Machine and Metals Company for the first half reported net loss of $85,143, compared with net loss of $224,569 in the first half year.

Indian Motocycle Company for the six months ended June 30 reported net loss of $528,424, against net loss of $368,793 in the corresponding period of 1930.

Warner Quinlan Company reports for six months ended June 30 consolidated net loss of $95,842 after interest, depreciation, depletion, inventory adjustment and including proportion of profit or loss of affiliated companies and a non-operating profit of $139,325. This compares with net loss of $167,361 in the first half of 1930.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Raw sugar was quiet early today and prices were unchanged at 3.55c for spots. Both Cuban and duty frees were available at this level.

The withdrawal demand for refined was again of liberal proportions, stimulated by the continued warm weather but no new business was reported. Prices were unchanged at 4.75c for fine granulated with second hands available at around 4.60c, but not in large volume.

STEEL REPORTS SHOW DRASTIC COST CUTTING

J. & L. Aided by Slash in Office Workers' Salaries; Special Income Factor

The reduction of the dividend of the United States Steel Corporation from a $7 to a $4 annual basis and the passing of the common dividend by the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation reflect the general belief that there are no prospects for material improvement in sight for the steel industry at the present time.

The Steel Corporation dividend was a shock to the financial community which had expected a $5 rate.

Quarterly statements of the steel companies have reflected the steps taken to cut overhead costs through reductions in office forces and other economies. Jones & Laughlin was helped to some extent by a salary cut for its office workers. Special income was a factor in the profits of the United States Steel Corporation.

PROFITS COMPARED

Net profit for the three months ended June 30 was $7,391,355 after all charges. This was equivalent to 12 cents a share on the common stock and compared with $6,765,057 or 5 cents a share in the previous quarter and with $32,126,717 or $3.02 a share a year ago.

Special income for the quarter amounted to $7,160,966. This left the actual regular earnings for the period at only $230,383, which bears out predictions that earnings in the steel industry in the second quarter would be lower than those of the first quarter.

A slight improvement was shown by Jones and Laughlin in the second quarter. This reflected the results of steps taken to reduce overhead costs. Net profit for the three months was $391,825 or 66 cents a share on the preferred stock compared with a loss of $190,982 in the first quarter and with a profit of $3,403,687 or $4.12 a share on the common stock a year ago.

SHEET AND TUBE LOSS

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company went further in the hole in the second quarter than in the first. A loss of $1,176,444 was reported for the three months ended June 30 compared with a loss of $822,909 in the first quarter. An increase of $25,000,000 in this organization's funded debt was a factor in causing the greater loss.

The Republic Steel Corporation's statement reflected more efficient operations. A loss of $1,092,304 was reported for the quarter but this was less than the deficit of $1,692,593 in the preceding quarter.

WILL TRY OIL PRICE RAISE

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29.—(AP)—Reports were heard in Oklahoma oil circles today that a compromise on a higher crude oil price is to be attempted as answer to Gov. Murray's "dollar-a-barrel" ultimatum issued yesterday. The Governor said he would shut down wells by armed force, if necessary, unless the price reached that figure by Saturday.

Major purchasers with headquarters in Tulsa have indicated they would meet today and later arrange conferences with producers in various fields with a view to establishing a price around 75 or 85 cents a barrel.

The present top price is 50 cents.

JUST PLAYING AROUND -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

Chubb Says He'll Kill Self If Kitty Rejects Him

CHAPTER XXIX.

If Arline Parsons had had some sort of a deadly weapon in her hand when she made that wild leap for me I know that she would have made every possible effort to kill me.

That I was frightened I cannot deny. The murderous expression on her rather hard-featured face was sufficient to frighten anyone.

I expected a fight, a disgraceful scene, publicity and a wire for me to go back to New York. That thought flashed to me as Arline leaped.

Synopsis

Because Katherine Mason believes in playing around and having a gay time she finds herself deeply involved in troubles. She jilts Peter Thompson because he is poor. She expects to marry rich Thad Parsons but he marries Arline Sargent who is named in a divorce scandal within six months. Katherine is getting fond of Forrest Malvern, a rich man of 40, who had been sweet on her old friend, Dolly Hawkins, who disappeared long ago. Thad is going to divorce Arline. Katherine tells Thad she will never marry him. Thad's wife offers her $50,000 to help her in the divorce case. Kitty agrees to swear to a false story against Thad, but when the trial opens she shocks Arline by telling the truth. As the result, Thad wins his case. Kitty and Viola are sent to a fashion show at Palm Beach. They meet Arline and Curt Lawlor. Arline tells Kitty to leave the place or suffer the consequences.

Now Go On

But Curt Lawlor was too quick for her. He had seen trouble coming and heard her threat.

His arm shot out and stopped her. His other hand grasped her wrist.

"You little fool," he said, with a sort of ugly snarl, "we can't afford a scene and a scandal."

She stood motionless save for the heaving of her thin bosom, glaring at me. Then she turned to Lawlor.

"Make her get out of Palm Beach, Curt," she said.

Viola had stood back of me all this time without saying a word. This was too much for her.

"The story of your meeting us on the beach, coupled with the story of what happened at the divorce hearing last time we met, will sure make a dandy yarn for the newspaper boys," she said.

Arline gasped at this.

"And we know plenty," I added.

A SUCCESSFUL BLUFF

"Look here, Katie," Lawlor said, lowering his voice and pretending to smile as some people passed us, "you and your friend pretend sickness, anything, and beat it back to New York and I'll give you five hundred each."

"Not for five million—didn't I turn down fifty thousand?" I said. And I actually had the nerve to wink at Arline, who was so furious that tears came to her eyes—tears of pure anger.

"Be a sport," he pleaded.

"I'm not a sport, not Arline's type of sport. I've got a proposition—since she threatened to kill me. I'll give her until tomorrow morning to get out of here. Go to Miami if she wants to—"

"Or a still hotter place," Viola put in.

"The creature is—is disgusting," Arline snapped.

"If you are here by tomorrow noon that story my friend so cleverly suggested will be given to the newspaper."

"I'll see you this afternoon, Katie—neither of you is in a condition to argue," Curt Lawlor said.

"Then keep the little dog off of me," I snapped.

Curt and Arline strolled away.

I looked at Viola and she looked at me.

"Will the bluff work, I wonder?" she asked.

"Sure it will. Viola, you are a genius to think of that," I cried.

"It's all bluff and I'm not so darned happy over this situation," she confessed.

I wasn't happy about it, either.

Curt Lawlor did see us that afternoon.

"We are going over to the West Coast for a week," he said, and I could see that he was decidedly ugly about it, "but just the same that was a dirty thing you did to Arline at the divorce hearing."

REBUKES LAWLOR

"It wasn't dirty for her to try to frame Thad, was it?" I demanded. "If she never did anything worse than what I did—Oh, what's the use, Mr. Lawlor?"

"You are dumb," he snapped, "you don't fit, you don't know anything about society life."

"And you and Arline and that sort don't know anything about decency. Go and roll your hoop away from here before I get sore and turn the air blue yelling what I think of you."

He stared, muttered something sneeringly about 'Trash' and hurried away.

We didn't see Arline or Lawlor during the week we were there.

As for the show, it went off just grand. I suppose it seemed better down there than it would in New York where so much more is expected.

There was more photography. Both Viola and myself were photographed in advance of the show and again at the beach in bathing suits, in pajamas, and in sport costumes.

We got back to New York on a Monday and the pictures that had been taken the previous Monday were already in the rotogravure sections.

Tuesday at the establishment Mr. and Mrs. Miers were delighted. Their big customer who had staged the show had given them a large order and complimented them on their display.

Forrest and Chubb both telephoned on this day. I turned Chubb down because Forrest wanted me to bring Viola up to his apartment for a party that night. He said he would have a nice boy friend for Viola.

It was a nice enough party. Forrest had some theatrical people up there as guests who entertained us and there were a couple of movie stars who didn't entertain us at all but amused us with their high-hat stuff.

Forrest took Viola and myself into that cute little den of his and brought out a couple of gorgeous Spanish shawls.

"Picked them up in Tangier, not in Spain, but they are the real thing," he said, and gave one to each of us.

MORE GIFTS

A little later, as we were sitting together listening to a well-known comedian giving us an impromptu monologue, Forrest said to me, "Katie dearest, I have some other things for you much better. I couldn't get them out tonight—but I'll see that you get them all right."

I was all eagerness to know what it could be but he teased me and wouldn't even let me try to guess.

It was around 3 in the morning when we left. I should have left an hour earlier, but Forrest's parties at his wonderful apartment are so gay that it was difficult to break away.

As we left the elevator to cross the big and cold looking marble foyer I noticed the same little gray-haired woman with pail and brush and rags down on her knees on the cold marble cleaning up for the morning.

Someone stepped on a bit of the old scrubwoman's soap and skidded.

Forrest cursed the old woman for leaving it there and I promptly called him down.

"That isn't like you, Forrest—the poor old dear couldn't help it," I said.

"Softie," he answered, and laughed at me.

A THREAT

We raved over the beautiful shawls when we got home. Forrest had slipped them into a box and given them to his chauffeur who was to drive us home. That chauffeur of his certainly had to be a night owl.

"Nice of him, wasn't it?" I said as we draped the gorgeous shawls about him.

"Very," Viola said briefly.

"And once you said you didn't like him."

"I like his shawls," was all she would say.

Chubb Osmund was waiting for me in front of the Miers establishment the following night.

Not the usual jolly Chubb, but a doleful, almost tearful appearing Chubb—he reminded me of a crying Kewpie.

"Hello, infant!" I called out. "What's the trouble? Did you lose your lollipop?"

That used to make him laugh. This time he sighed like a fireplace on a windy day.

I hopped into his car.

"I lost my heart," he said.

"Woolworth has some dandies."

"You turned me down last night and went out with Malvern," he said accusingly.

"Why not, Chubb?"

"Won't you marry me, Katie?"

"Nope—I've decided that it wouldn't be a good match, Chubb."

"But you half promised and—and if you don't marry me I'll take poison—I mean it—I've got it right here with me!"

"I won't marry you—now let's see you take it," I said, thinking he was bluffing.

Quick as a flash he raised a small bottle to his lips!

(Does Chubb make his threat good? Read tomorrow's thrilling installment.)

DAILY SHORT STORY

Amazing Mazie

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Jewelry Robbery Is Solved By Girl Detective

O'Byrne, head of the famous private detective agency, studied the girl.

Here was a new one. This girl might find employment as a model in a studio or smart gown shop. She looked like a society girl and spoke like one, so far as O'Byrne could recall from the few society girls he had talked with.

"Why?" Dan O'Byrne finally asked.

"I like to eat and wear clothes and go places, Mr. O'Byrne."

"Um," he grunted, and then, "that ought to be mighty easy for a girl like—"

"Please—not that old line. They all spring that one."

O'Byrne flushed.

"You could model, you could find steady work on the stage, you could do a great many things like that. I meant—and that is all I meant. What is your name?"

"Mazie Kendall, and I do not choose to be a model or go on the stage. I want to be a detective."

"Been reading these detective magazines, I suppose, Miss Kendall?"

"Some of them. I read a great deal."

"Well," O'Byrne finally said, "I'm afraid you wouldn't do."

"But you use women operatives, what is your objection to me? Don't I seem to be intelligent enough for the job? Does it take an intellectual giant?"

"It takes a 'natural' just as good flying needs what they call a 'natural.' The fact is you are too good looking. Suppose you were trailing some woman? She would spot you the next time. Women never forgive other women who are more beautiful than they, and you are more beautiful than most women. This holds good with men in a sort of reverse manner—few men forget a pretty woman. Suppose you were watching some crook, some smart crook—"

O'BYRNE SMILES

"A really smart man wouldn't be dumb enough to be a crook, Mr. O'Byrne."

"You never hear of the smart ones—they aren't caught. Now, suppose you were watching a smart crook, a man. He would note your beauty. If he saw you the next night and the next, he would remember you and, being a crook, he would have a well-grounded suspicion that you were watching him."

"The city," Mazie said, "is full of beautiful young women. However, I won't argue. I wanted to land with you because your agency has the top-notch reputation."

O'Byrne nodded and smiled.

"That is true, because my agency is by far the best, the most successful."

"So you say, but so far as I am concerned it is just your opinion against the opinion of other heads of notable private detective agencies. I'm sorry you have turned me down because I would have liked to work on the Hannis case."

O'Byrne sat straight up in his swivel chair and stared at her in amazement.

"I have no one in my employ who would break faith with me, so you must have learned this on the outside. How, I do not know, because the parties concerned have no suspicion that we are working against them. Do you care to tell me how you know?"

"Because I am a born detective."

GIVEN CHANCE

Mazie smiled at him. "The elder Mr. Hannis is heartbroken because he fears that his son is stealing from him. The son has no suspicion that his father believes this. With a fair degree of luck in the matter of opportunity I can find out the truth."

"By making a passionate play for young Hannis?"

O'Byrne sneered a little. He didn't care for that sort of detective work.

"I do not expect to meet or speak to the young or the elder Hannis."

"Look here, you have some information. I want it. I'll give you a week's trial, Miss Kendall, if you will tell me how you got this information."

"After a week's trial—"

O'Bryne's secretary entered and announced a man. Mazie went into the next room and waited. O'Byrne was soon out again, walking to the door with his visitor and chatting a moment. When he came back he called Mazie into his office.

"Find out what you can," he said.

"I'll be seeing you. By the way, is this Mr. Smithson your son?"

"Now, how the devil do you come to think that a man named Smithson can be my son?"

"Because his real name is Tom O'Byrne."

"Find out a few more things and I'll tell you a few."

Mazie set out to find out more things.

It was the third day after this that she went back to O'Byrne's private office.

"Know anything, Miss Kendall?"

"A great deal, but not enough yet."

"I suppose," he said, with a trace of sarcasm, "that you are on the verge of solving this thing?"

"I'm a million miles from a solution, but I might get the answer almost any time now. By the way, this Mr. Smithson is your brother."

"Have you talked with him?"

"Not at all."

"What else have you learned?"

"That Mr. Ivan Hannis has secretly made an independent fortune."

"Ha!" O'Bryne made no attempt to hide his disgust. "Secretly is just the word. He has been secretly pilfering securities, family jewels of great value and such from his father—that's his fortune. I know it and I'm after proof."

"You mean that the elder Mr. Hannis has been missing these things and you guess—"

"I never guess, Miss Kendall."

"No? Detectives guess every day, but they always call it 'deduction.' You deduct, then, that the son has stolen these things. Well, he may have stolen them or he may not have stolen them, but his independent fortune comes from the Frog Pond group of oil wells. He staked the friends who bought the property and now he's a half owner."

"Is this a lot of hooey, Miss Kendall? Where is Frog Pond located, this Frog Pond oil property?"

"I wish I knew, and I hope to know."

"You are amazing, really. What else do you know?"

"Nothing much, nothing of importance to you, but I have several days left—"

"Months left, so long as you can prove any of these things I have heard from you."

PICTURE TAKEN

"Prove them yourself. I just get information for you. If the source of my information or the sources are liars, I'm sorry, I cannot vouch for that." . . . . . .

Mazie Kendall walked out. O'Byrne pressed a button and a man entered.

"Get it?" he asked.

"Yes sir."

"Rush me a print."

The man had taken a picture of Mazie as she sat talking with O'Byrne. He had hundreds of pictures of people taken as they sat in that chair in his office.

That evening he went over to the bachelor quarters of Joe Smithson who was, as Mazie had said, really O'Byrne's young brother who had been abroad for five years.

"Know her?" O'Byrne asked.

"Say—that's luck! She's the sweet little beauty I've seen around places for some time. Tell me about her!"

"She's working for us."

"I hope I'm a pop-eyed pink walrus if that isn't a knockout! I've got to meet her—she's got me winging, first girl I ever saw who took my mind off my work."

"She's amazing, mysterious, get a line on her and don't lose your head or heart over her. There's something phoney there. I think she's double crossing us."

"Thanks, but I don't believe it."

Young Tom O'Byrne did meet Mazie in the office the next day and they went out to dinner together. They had a gay time but Tom learned nothing about her except that she was being given a trial by his brother.

It was in the middle of the second week that Mazie said to Tom, "I've got an invitation for a week-end at the Snard place at Blixo Park. Pack a bag and come along as my brother, we'll learn things."

And so they went. They got back at the office on Tuesday. They had enjoyed the week-end although some of the party seemed just a bit suspicious, rather thinly veiled wildness.

EMPLOYS LIP READING

They went in to see Tom's brother together.

"Mazie has a report she won't tell me. I didn't learn a darn thing," Tom reported.

"Look here, Miss Kendall, I apologize, by thunder you were right—young Hannis did make his immense fortune in oil as you said, and his father doesn't know it. I've had men out there and got the truth. Now what have you got to report? I'll go you a surprise—you have learned that he got the money to back his friends in this oil venture by stealing from his father."

"You lose—Old man Hannis has a second wife, very young, very giddy, very sporty and decidedly naughty. She has been stealing from her doting old husband to give the proceeds to her sweetie, Chauncey Falbank. She gave him some jewels Saturday afternoon."

"How the devil, Mazie, did you know? We were together Saturday," Tom exclaimed.

"Lip reading!"

The O'Byrnes stared at her.

The elder O'Byrne spoke to his brother without making a sound.

"You told him," Mazie said, "that I was doubtless an adventuress."

"You win, Miss Kendall," said O'Byrne, the elder brother.

"So do I," Tom said. "I win the amazing Mazie!"

"If it's true, you are one lucky devil," and O'Byrne shook hands with his brother.

"It's true," the amazing Mazie confessed.

The Grand Jury Session

The Meeting Tomorrow Will Go a Long Way Towards Relieving a Bad Situation.

The heat is a hardship to persons free to come and go as they please. But suppose you were sweltering in a cell in the county jail, falsely accused, and unable to furnish bail.

Up until this year you would have had to stay in your cell until the grand jury met in September.

But the Sun-Telegraph's protests against the barbarous practice of letting innocent persons languish in prison during the summer suspension of the courts have borne fruit.

The grand jury will meet tomorrow to pass on such cases. There are 126 to be considered—all cases in which the accused are in jail unable to give bail, all cases in which the accused would have had to wait for action until September under the old system.

If the grand jury does not find sufficient evidence to warrant trying the prisoners they will be released at once. Those who are indicted may, if they choose, plead guilty, be sentenced, and immediately start serving their terms.

This humane innovation is an important improvement in court procedure, and one for which commendation is due the judges and District Attorney Park.

The forward movement should not halt there, however. The courts should remain open in summer for jury trials and other matters.

Common Pleas Court is more than a year behind in its work, and one reason why it never catches up is because of the two months suspension in summer.

There is no excuse for conducting the public business less efficiently than private business. Any commercial concern, with a year's capacity of unfilled orders on its books, which would shut shop for two months, as our courts do, would quickly and deservedly pass into the hands of receivers and be liquidated.

A Good Example

Other Organizations Would Do Well to Follow Catholics' Lead in Inspecting Institutions

Bishop Boyle has moved with commendable speed to protect other Catholic institutions in the Pittsburgh diocese from the fate of the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged, destroyed by fire last Friday night with loss of more than twoscore lives.

He has ordered an inspection of all the institutions under his jurisdiction—a thorough inspection by engineering experts, who are to tell him frankly what, if anything, is remiss. Bishop Boyle promises to apply whatever remedies lie within his power.

Here is an example that might well be followed by every other organization, religious, fraternal or philanthropic, that maintains asylums, homes and hospitals in Western Pennsylvania.

It is expected of the authorities in charge of public institutions that they shall make periodic inspections to see if needed safety appliances are missing, and equal care should be shown in the private institutions.

Modern Birthplaces

The Forthcoming Reunion of Natives of the Triangle Calls Attention to a Great Change.

Plans are announced for a reunion of persons born in the Downtown section of Pittsburgh.

Those expected to attend were born in the years when Duquesne way, Penn avenue and Fifth street were lined with the homes of the rich, while the Point was occupied by the dwellings of people in modest circumstances.

Dwellings are not much in evidence downtown today, yet a good many persons still live, apparently, in the business section, for many votes are cast in those precincts.

But it is extremely doubtful if there will be living a generation or two hence any considerable number of persons born downtown—or, for that matter, born in Squirrel Hill or in any of a number of other residential districts.

Nor will it be possible for the Pittsburghers of the future to point to modest edifices as the places of their birth.

Twentieth century Pittsburghers are being born in hospitals.

President Hoover Has Turned His Back On Traditional Policy of Avoiding Foreign Entanglements

What every President from the founding of this republic has sought seduously to avoid—foreign entanglements—President Hoover has brazenly perpetrated.

On the urging of the international bankers, our internationally minded Mr. Hoover has swallowed the bait of European blandishments.

GOD HELP US.

Millions of dollars, millions of men were sent abroad in the great war to save France and Allies from a decisive death thrust by Germany.

Many of the men never returned.

Many of the dollars have not come back.

Many more of the dollars, justly due and owing us, NEVER WILL COME BACK.

Our representatives, mere babes in the wood when it comes to the tangled maze of Old World diplomacy, sit in the London conference, fully empowered to commit this republic to entanglements in European politics which can only spell disaster.

The administration at Washington has turned its back upon our traditional policy of NO FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENTS, and stands committed BODY AND SOUL to the dictates of European diplomats.

This shift from American traditions has excited the attention of the entire world.

The New Statesman and Nation, of London, England, in its current issue says:

> "For the most significant fact in the present situation is that the United States has tardily RE-ENTERED EUROPEAN POLITICS, has fully realized the folly of the French policy and stands wholeheartedly with Great Britain for a policy of European reconstruction, which means, to begin with, that the reparation muddle must cease."

Repeatedly the voters of the republic have overwhelmingly repudiated any attempt to link this nation with any foreign government, either through the League of Nations or the League Court, and they will repudiate the most recent folly of Hoover internationalism.

Fortunately the next Congress will have an opportunity to redeem the republic from the foolish international commitments of the present administration.

Voice: Hello, hello! Is Mrs. Brown there?

Me (sweetly): Not at this moment. Who—

Voice (peremptorily): Who is this speaking?

Me: Well, my great-grandmother was a Lomax of Virginia.

Voice: WHAT?

Me: But my father came from Maryland, the Wattinglys, you know.

Voice: Who the awful word ARE YOU?

Me (very patiently and sweetly): I'm trying to TELL you. You see, they all settled in Washington after the Civil War.

Voice: What the blankety-blank are you talking about?

Me: Naughty, naughty! Mustn't swear! Mrs. Brown might hear you.

Voice (exasperatedly): WHERE IS MRS. BROWN?

Me: How do I know? She may be out with another woman's husband.

Voice: WHAT?

Me: Well, you never can tell these days. I don't keep tabs. I just say a woman's morals are none of MY affair.

Voice (murderously): Is this [illegible] 1991?

Me: Why, yes, of course.

Voice: Then Who are YOU?

Me: Oh, YOU tell first! You called me up, didn't you?

Voice: Oh, the devil! All right!

Me: Just a moment, please! It ISN'T all right for you to call me out of my sleep and then swear at me. But a book [illegible].

Faith's Flower

Of faith I sing, of faith that leads Us always on to better deeds;
Of faith that like a beacon glows
And makes life lovely as a rose;
Of faith that to our souls is given
So we may gain an earthly heaven.

Through all earth's dark and doubtful ways,
By rock-strewn roads of forest maze,
Like to a mother's guiding hand
Faith leads who seek to understand
The reason of the things that are;
In darkest night faith finds a star.

Faith brings a joy no man can gain
In reason's cold, severe domain,
And wise are we who tend faith's flower
That in some storm-rent, cruel hour
Grows up into a sheltering tree
With sheltering boughs for you, for me.

FRANCE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, (By Mail)—Bob Brinkerhoff, the blond New York illustrator, blew into town today on the last lap of a swing around the globe, having set off from Vancouver in March. Since I saw him he has watched geisha in Japan, sipped tea along Bubbling Well Road in Shanghai, talked to Gandhi and slept in Formosa camphor trees.

Cutting across Place Victor Hugo I espied his familiar figure. [illegible] a full-throated Comanche whoop sailed my pearl gray chapeau skyward and screamed: "Hi, Bicka!" He dropped a suitcase crisscrossed with flamboyant labels and we snapped into a waltz on the ancient cobblestones.

Bob is a friend of long standing. Along with H. T. Webster and Ray Rohn, we came to New York together, pitching camp in a walk-up apartment far uptown in the 140's. All of us had slaved side by side for several years in the editorial rooms of the Cincinnati Post.

In those first days in the metropolis we were gay young buccaneers on the journalistic high seas. Money was so coy and reluctant that we often cut each other's hair and there were bleak days when we pussy-footed from our flat via the fire escape to avoid a rather unsentimental landlord.

After our chance meeting I took him around to Willis Morgan's pork chop emporium and filled him to his outstanding ears with fried chicken, corn fritters and yellow ice cream a la Americaine. My hospitality was top notch save neglecting [illegible]. One forgets in the hurry of travel.

Bob and I have explored Paris before together, even to a skiff ride through the sewers, and as he was naturally fed up on rubbernecking, we drifted to a sidewalk table up an obscure side street and gabbed ourselves out. Then we paid a surprise visit to Hattie Bell Johnston in her rue Eugene Flachet domicile.

She is the widow of the beloved William Johnston, author, former Sunday editor of the New York World and intimate of O. Henry. For many years Hattie Bell and Bill Johnston's 91st street home was the Charles and Mary Lamb's of the literati. Few writers there are who have not been warmed by their hospitality.

I was recalling to Mrs. Johnston over the tea cups this late afternoon the privilege of celebrity contacts I, a struggling nobody, they so graciously welcomed, enjoyed at their festive board. It was there I first met E. Phillips Oppenheim, Charles and Kathleen Norris, Fannie Hurst, Isaac Marcosson, Willem Van Loon, Peter Kyne, Arthur Somers Roche, Herb Roth, Carolyn Wells, Donn Byrne, Ralph Barton, Neysa McMein, Marlyn Arbuckle and innumerable others whose names for the moment escape me but who made their marks.

Poor old Maxim's, perhaps one of the best known restaurants to Americans in Paris, seems about to give up the struggle. Last evening at the lively homecoming hour I saw but a single customer sitting in the shadow of its red front. Four sidewalk waiters stood gloomily at their posts. On a stool at the circular bar a few steps inside sat a lone and rather tarnished cocotte puffing a cigarette and reading the Paris Midi.

I invited her to join me in an aperitif, which she did sans the customary alacrity. Departing a few moments later she observed: "You go, M'sieu? It is the way. Everybody come, stay a minute and pouf! rush away. I, Clarette, am very, very lonely." The world chaos has touched the forlorn Clarettes, too.

One of the unimportant but unforgettable etchings of Paris to me is that crepuscular hour of utter sidewalk and street desolation between 8 and 9 in the evening. The only figures to be seen are the gnarled and heavily mustached women who seep out from their clammy depths with their white and black fox terrier like dogs—the dogs seen nowhere save in Paris. It is the only hour of day when Paris presents a haunting melancholy.

Billy incidentally enjoyed his annual call on the bearded proprietor of the Hotel Continental barber shop today. He pulls for the doorway a block away remembering an atomizer bulb that is always there for a romp. Barbers quit their chairs and manicure girls their tables during the five-minute high jinks.

I've been here just long enough to begin to be irritated by French customs and manners. My pet peeve for the day concerns a sign over the bath discovered this evening. It reads: "Priere de faire couler l'eau froide avant l'eau chaude." It strikes me as a heck of a long winded way to say: "Please let the cold water run first." And imagine "Pelouse Interdit" for "No trespassing," the sillies!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

What on earth made you turn yellow . . . run away when you should have faced the music?

Why did you tell that lie—you who have always boasted about your honesty?

Why did you pick that fight . . . make such a fool of yourself over that man or that woman . . . do, in short, any one of a score of contemptible acts which you knew you didn't want to commit and can't yet believe that you did commit?

You did it because you WANTED to do it. And you're no one to blame but yourself.

"That isn't true!" you cry. "That act was utterly unlike me. I wasn't my real self then or I'd never have dreamed of doing such a thing—"

But that wasn't the first time you did that thing. Actually you had done that thing hundreds of times before.

That lie, for instance. You say you detest lies and love honesty. You believe you practice honesty. Yet for years you have been practicing dishonesty. Not loud, noisy, obvious dishonesty. Often indeed the fib you told never passed your lips. You just fibbed to yourself. Kidded yourself along. Framed a fancy alibi for your own conduct.

You never thought that those secret unspoken fibs counted, did you? But they DID! Each one lessened your moral resistance a bit . . . altered your attitude toward dishonesty . . . made it seem more necessary and justifiable . . . made it easier for you to twist the truth.

THEN SUDDENLY ONE DAY YOU FIND YOURSELF LYING LIKE A PROFESSIONAL! Which is exactly what you have become. For in spite of your amazement, horror and humiliation that Whopping Big Lie is the result of all your past practice in little lies.

And, by the same process, you turn yellow in a moment of stress because when you weren't under stress, you ducked, dodged, evaded, shirked, ran away. You called it "being cautious." But that caution was the seed of cowardice.

There's no great mystery about human conduct. You do today what you chose to do yesterday. You will do tomorrow what you decide to do today. Your Big Important Decisions are the direct fruit of your small unconsidered choices. There's no such thing as a "private life." Sooner or later you'll broadcast it all to the world. And then wonder how the heck it happened!

Walter Winchell had some great verses at the head of his column the other day. (Thanks for the swipes, Walt! You can chisel on me next time.)

The things that you say when you're stewed, boys,
Are the things that you mean
when you're not,
But you haven't the gall to say them, that's all,
Until you're made whoopee a lot.

The things that you say when you're stewed, boys,
Are the things that are close to your heart,
And I'll just bet a ten, if you start something then,
It is something you wanted to start!

Which isn't merely an able endorsement of booze as a means to self-expression . . . it's first-rate psychology. Booze isn't the only thing that will show you up, stranger. JUST STICK AROUND AND YOU'LL SPILL THE BEANS ON YOURSELF.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Mark each statement as "True" or "False."

1. Daniel Webster was called the Defender of the Faith.
2. A lyre is a stringed instrument.
3. Dunes are oases in a desert.
4. Dr. Primrose is a character in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."
5. King Henry VIII, of England, commanded the waves to retreat.
6. Roosevelt's term of office was called the era of good feeling.
7. The magician in Tennyson's "Idyls of the King" is Merlin.
8. A pullet is a long rope.
9. The Hoosic Tunnel is cut through the White Mountains.
10. Pulmonary refers to the lungs.

Fill each blank.

11. William Rosencrans commanded in the ——— War.
12. Rebecca is the heroine in Scott's "———."
13. To writhe means to ——— violently.
14. A settee is a medium sized ———.
15. Natatory means adapted for ———.

Answers to today's test:

1. False—of the Constitution. 2. True. 3. False—mounds of sand. 4. False—"The Vicar of Wakefield." 5. False—King Canute. 6. False—term of James Monroe. 7. True. 8. False—young hen. 9. False—through Green Mountains. 10. True. 11. Civil. 12. "Ivanhoe." 13. Twist. 14. Sofa. 15. Swimming.

More at Home Like Them

Two Fine Examples of Young America.

HELEN JACOBS. SHE SHOWED EUROPE SOMETHING.

These pictures of two young Americans, that have recently shown Great Britain, and the rest of Europe, what American youth can do in the great tennis tournament at Wimbledon, are printed to help cure the prevailing blues.

The future of a nation depends on the youth of that nation, and the great quality in youth is CONCENTRATION, the power to do, CONSISTENTLY, PERSISTENTLY AND WELL, what it sets out to do.

When you study the two young people whose photographs appear in this column, you don't worry about the future generation in the United States.

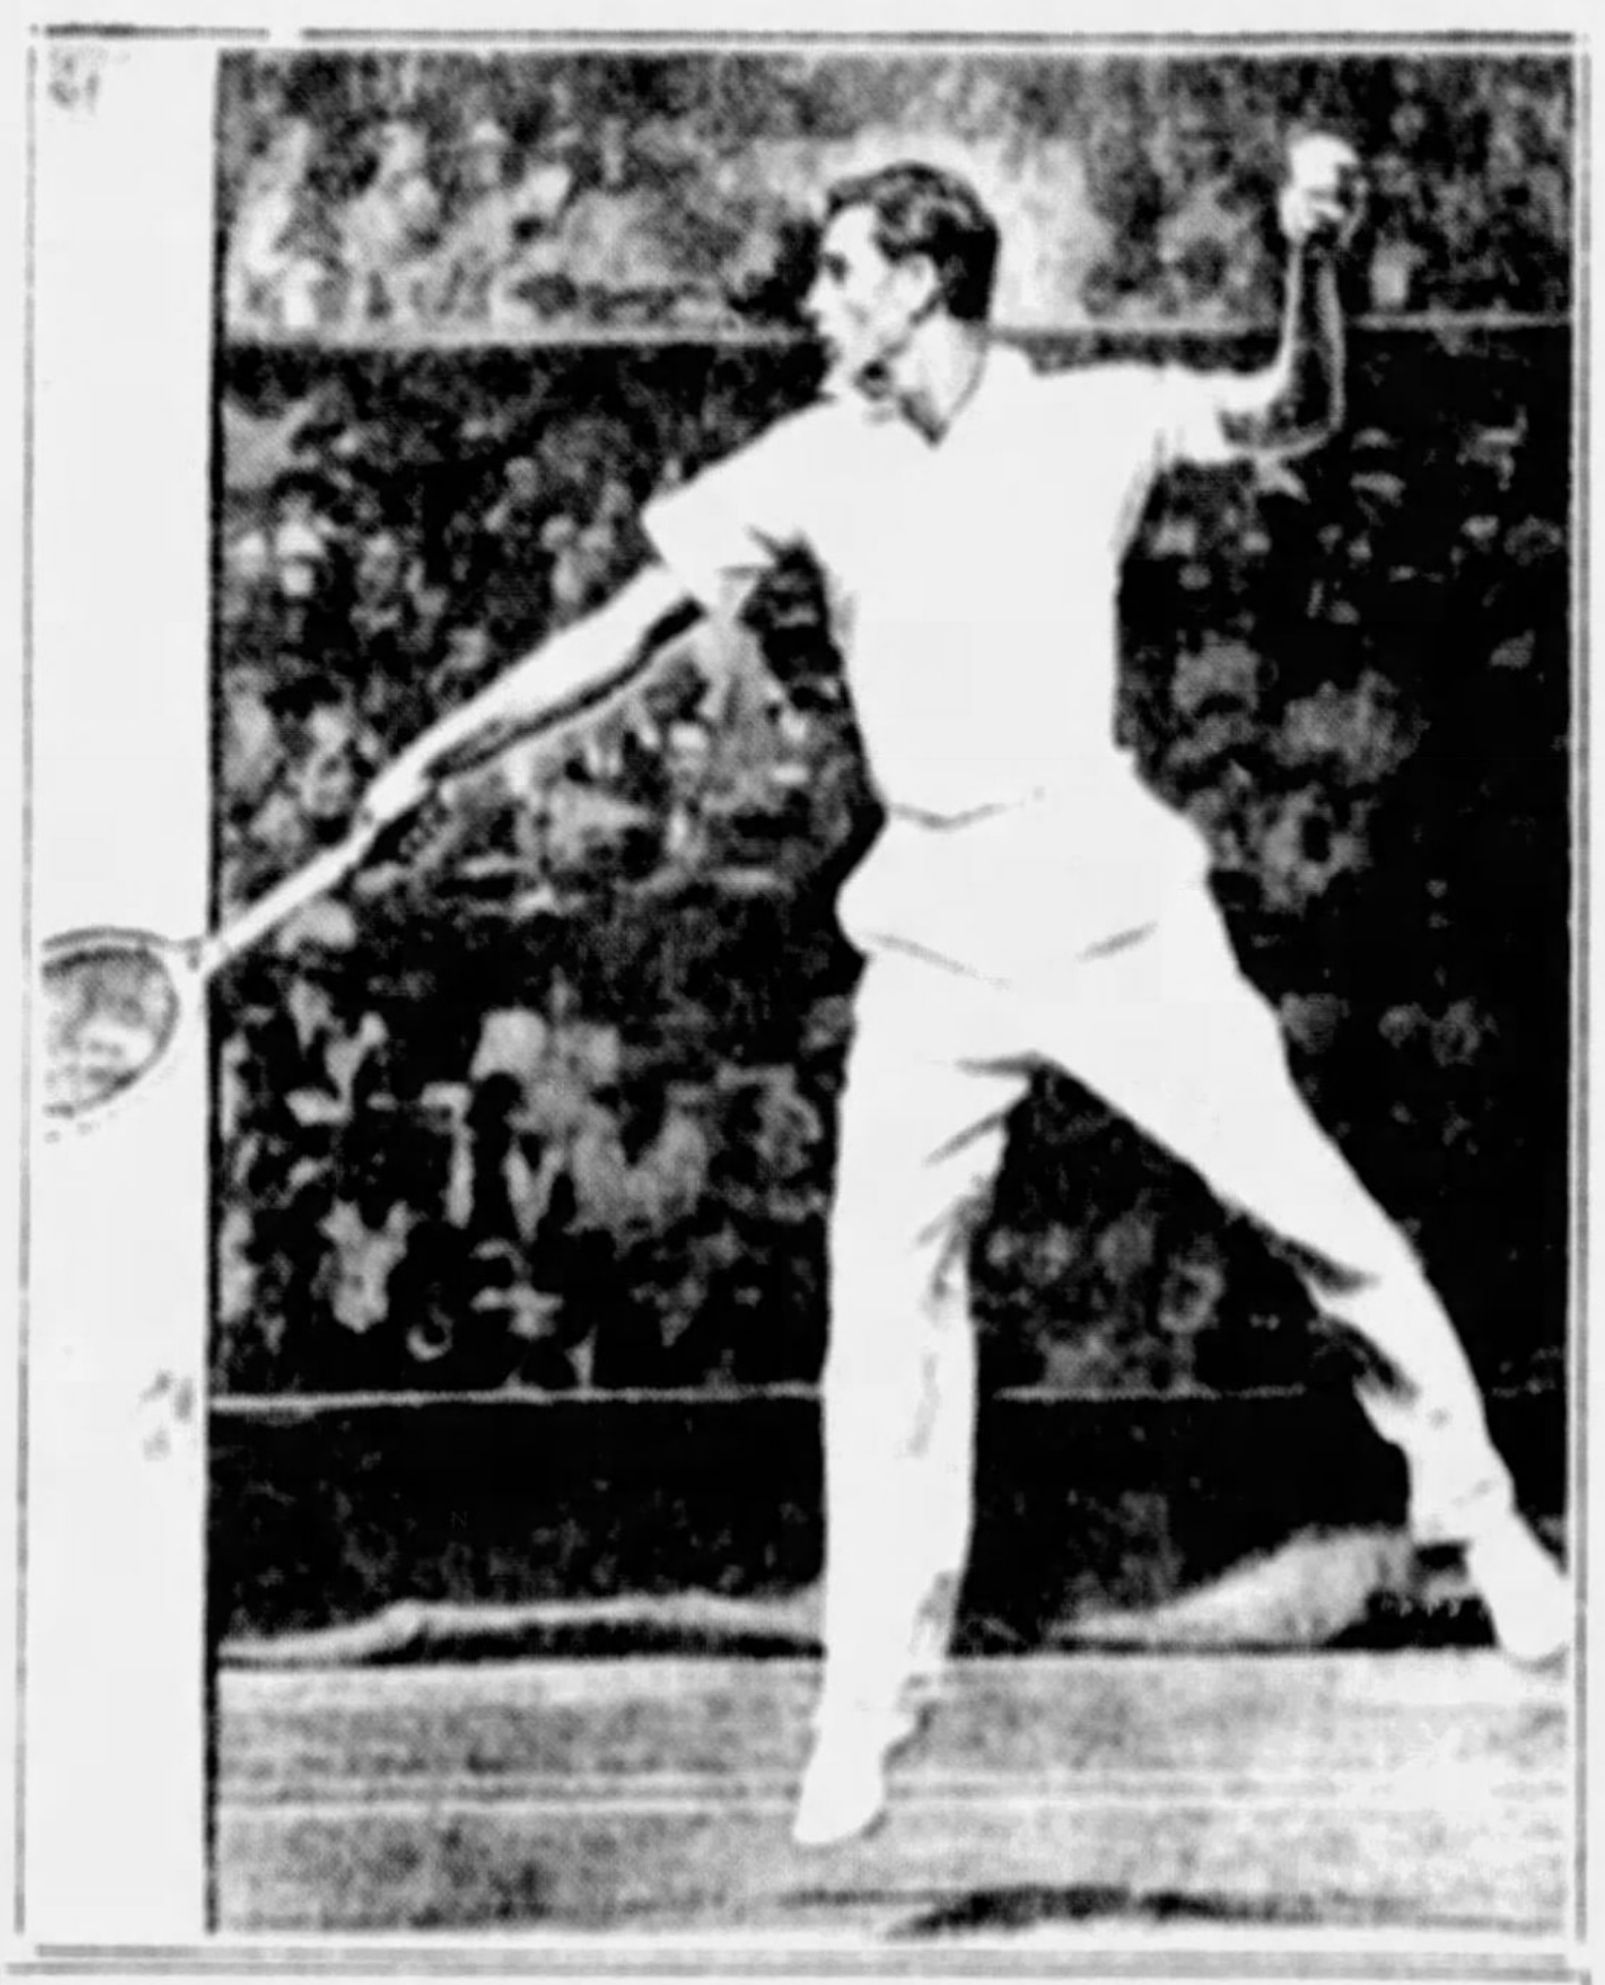
That young girl, Helen Jacobs, went to Wimbledon to play after a long and exhausting illness. You can see that she conquered it. Incidentally, she conquered the players of various nationalities that competed with her.

See the strength and precision in that arm, the splendid balance of the body, the intense concentration in the face.

Men are what WOMEN MAKE THEM, and here is a wonderful young woman.

The young man, F. X. Shields, represents the efficient type of America, long, lanky, like Abraham Lincoln.

When he hits the ball, his opponent thinks a cannonball is coming at him. And he doesn't serve one swift ball, to miss, and another slow one. If he makes a "fault" with the first, he drives the second just as hard, or harder.



F. X. SHIELDS, WITH THE 'CANNONBALL' SERVICE.

And, like his fellow American, Helen Jacobs, he drives his competitors out of the field.

Look around you, look in the faces of young Americans, boys and girls. Don't concentrate too much attention on the foolish few who sit up all night, drink cocktails and ruin their chances.

Think of the great crowd, the millions that are concentrating on their work, determined to succeed, studying earnestly, developing ambition.

Be glad you belong to a country that produces young people of this kind.

SCIENTIFIC WARFARE

By Archibald Henderson

It is customary to speak of the terrible but unknown scientific horrors of warfare in the future. This is a pastime popularized by H. G. Wells in his pseudo-scientific romances. It requires the imagination of a Haldane or a Verne to guess what future warfare will be like. Near the end of the World War it was reported that scientists had invented or were about to succeed in inventing a new sort of terribly destructive explosive, a few bombs of which would destroy an entire city.

It is hardly to be doubted that the next great war on a large scale will bring into play immensely destructive forces which scientists are now working to control and employ. For example, consider the radio-controlled airplane. A number of inventors have been working on this problem for some time, notably John Hays Hammond, Jr., and Archibald Montgomery Low. The latter claims that he has solved the problem of wireless control of the airplane from a fixed station within the limits of vision.

For such machines there is a possible future of usefulness. They might be used to procure photographic records of countries or areas over which flying with pilots might endanger life. They might serve to operate postal air services flying at great height over prescribed routes, or with slight alteration to record and transmit the actual photographs as taken by a camera carried in the wireless controlled airplane and mechanically worked.

The above are some of the uses for the radio-controlled airplane, as described by Prof. Low. Water torpedoes, as is well known, have been controlled by radio at a distance with considerable success.

Enormous thermionic valves will probably be used in future warfare for the wireless transmission of power. Electricity and heat may in this way be sent out in waves from a city, to protect it against an attacking army. Poison vapors may be sent out in clouds, above a certain level, to be harmless to those below, but deadly to aviators. Deadly germs, such as botulinus, for example, may be used in food prepared for the enemy, and water sources may be poisoned. As Prof. Low has pointed out.

There will be great activity underground, both for protective purposes and because the introduction of wireless sight and light will mean that night affords no cover. Government and other important centers will be underground; there will be scientifically constructed shelters, comfortably equipped, electrically heated and lighted throughout. Electrically heated suits will be worn during cold weather, enabling the wearers to plug themselves in at different points for shelter. Advanced boring machinery will tunnel underground at high speed, for constructing shelters and trenches.
